House vote ends decades-old debate

Congress opens dike on Navy's oil reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Ford a bill requiring that more than a billion barrels of oil be pumped from Navy reserves to meet U.S. energy needs.

The measure, approved Wednesday 390 to 5 by the House, ends a decades-old debate. It requires the Navy to begin moving within 90 days to put its petroleum fields in Elk Hills, Buena Vista and Teapot Dome into production. The Senate approved it last week by voice vote.

Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., chairman of the House-Senate conference that drafted the final bill, estimated that 325,000 barrels of oil a day will be flowing out of Elk Hills in California in two years.

Along with 1.6 million barrels a day flowing through the Alaska pipeline about that same time, Melcher said, there will be two million new barrels of oil a day toward the 16 million barrels a day America now uses.

The Navy and members of the influential House and Senate armed services committees have fought for decades the opening of Navy oil reserves for commercial sales on grounds the petroleum should be saved for war or military emergencies.

Under the new compromise, all money from commercial sale of the Navy oil will be set aside to buy back oil for a strategic oil reserve in the future or to buy up quickly civilian oil in a military emergency.

The bill requires the Navy to put the three oil reserves into the maximum efficient production and sell the oil to commercial companies that submit the highest bids.

Melcher said Elk Hills, near Bakersfield, with proven reserves of 1.2 billion barrels of oil will probably be producing 60,000 to 80,000 barrels a day in six months.

Production from the other two reserves will be small. Buena Vista, also in California, has 20 million to 51 million barrels of oil and Teapot Dome in Wyoming has 43 million to 50 million barrels.

April Fools Day no joke at IRS; big push ahead

FRESNO (AP) — It's no April Fools joke that two weeks from today is the deadline to file 1975 income tax returns.

And the Internal Revenue Service processing center here may get a heavier last-minute crush than usual because returns received to date are six per cent behind last year.

The center, which handles all federal returns for California and Hawaii, had received 5.3 million by the end of last week, leaving more than four million returns still to come said information officer Rob Marion.

"Probably more people have adjusted their withholding so they don't have a refund," Marion said Wednesday in explaining a decline of 500,000 returns from IRS estimates.

"If people have a refund coming, they file early, but if they have nothing, they're in no rush," he said. "And if they owe money, they'll file around April 15."

73-year-old Upland Inn is destroyed by blaze

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

The Upland Inn, 73-year-old landmark in downtown Upland, was destroyed by fire this morning. Damage was estimated at $200,000 to the popular restaurant-bar.

The fire was first reported by passing motorist, Robert Flinn, of Upland about 1:22 a.m. when he saw the roof in flames. Flinn called police, who notified the Fire Department.

When firemen arrived, the fire, which apparently started in the dining room area, had completely engulfed the interior of the old wooden structure at 123 E. Ninth St. Heavy black smoke and burning embers rose into the night air. The glow of the fire could be seen for several miles.

Upland Fire Chief Leon Lamphear, still at the scene this morning, said on arrival firemen called for mutual aid assistance from the Foothill Fire District, Ontario Fire Department and Montclair Fire Department.

Within minutes of the firemen's arrival, the center section of the 125 by 75-foot-structure collapsed in a roar. Large air-conditioning units on the roof tumbled down the burning roof supports, forcing firemen to retreat momentarily.

"There were no firebreaks (cement walls) in the building at all," said Lamphear. "We couldn't stop it."

Lamphear said there were no occupants of the building. The old building for many years served as a hotel inn and in later years as a restaurant and an apartment. Only a few years ago the upstairs apartments were closed.

At the height of the fire, nearly 50 firemen and six engines with Ontario's pumper-snorkle truck were at the scene. It took nearly two hours before the blaze was declared under control. But firemen, with the aid of city equipment, this morning continued pushing charred timbers out of the way to douse a number of hot spots that remained.

At one point, a dummy of an old railroad conductor was carried from the burning building and placed on a sidewalk bench facing the blaze. The dummy, its face burned away, remained on the bench this morning.

Lamphear said cause of the fire has yet to be determined. He said that the owner of the building, William Vallon, had been notified and presumably had insurance on the old building.

Lamphear said that Vallon over the past five years had done extensive remodeling in the building and added on several portions. The old upstairs apartments were being refurbished.

Destroyed in the flames were numerous memorabilia of old north Ontario and early downtown Upland, displayed in the dining room. A large bar in the building and all its liquor stock were lost, along with thousands of dollars in restaurant and kitchen equipment.

Fire inspectors indicated that it would be nearly impossible to rebuild the old structure, and more than likely the remains would have to be razed.

LANDMARK DESTROYED There was little left of the Upland Inn at 123 E. Ninth St. this morning after a fire of undetermined origin destroyed most of the building. City crews worked with firemen to push aside the charred timbers to douse a few remaining hotspots.

Inn's past recalled by historian

The famed Upland Inn, which was destroyed by fire Wednesday night, survived another major fire which leveled much of the city of Upland in 1913.

In fact, coffee for fire fighters in the 1913 disaster, which wiped out much of the downtown area, was prepared in the kitchen of the Upland Inn by members of the John Gerry family.

According to Mrs. Esther Black of Claremont, author of historical books on the valley, the Upland Inn was constructed in 1903 by Edwin B. Chaffee, who was not related to the Chaffey Brothers who are credited with much of the development of the Ontario area.

The inn, first served as a hotel and dining house. Upland was not incorporated until 1906, but had a post office in 1903.

At the time of its construction, the inn was called "Hotel Algonquin" after a famous hotel in New York City.

The hotel rooms on the upper stories of the timber-constructed building were converted to apartments about the time of the outbreak of World War II. The apartments were all vacated a few years ago.

While the Upland Inn served as the setting for many community events over the years, it was never a stagecoach stop as often stated, Mrs. Black said.

But the Victorian-styled structure was certainly a major part of the community's history, she added.

Truckers launch strike

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — A nationwide Teamsters trucking strike began today with thousands of drivers on picket lines and the nation's economy facing a crunching shutdown in the interstate flow of goods.

Union and trucking industry officials said negotiations, which failed to bring about a settlement in time to avert a walkout, would resume at 9:30 a.m., after a recess. Wages, fringe benefits and a cost-of-living clause remain in dispute, they said.

Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. and other federal officials had no comment early today, and there was no immediate indication the Ford administration would seek a Taft-Hartley injunction to keep the nation's trucking pipeline from drying up as the strike spread.

Picket lines appeared at frieght yards and truck terminals from Connecticut to Georgia to Colorado.

Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons said three hours after the midnight strike deadline that Teamsters were "on record if we didn't conclude an agreement by 12:01 midnight that our people weren't going to work. ... There is a strike. Our people have walked off."

The strike, Fitzsimmons said, covers "the entire United States of America." Of the possibility of a federal back-to-work order, Fitzsimmons said, "It's entirely up to the government."

There were scattered reports of violence on the picket lines. Police in Cleveland said two men fired at trucker Paul Allen, of Marilla, N.Y., as he drove through the city early this morning. Officers said Allen's cab was hit twice but he was uninjured.

In Detroit, where truck company employes reported operations paralyzed, police said a 23-year-old man was beaten by several picketers when he tried to park his truck at the International Cartage Co.

State Police at Rockford in the southwestern corner of Michigan said a group of men threw rocks at trucks near Michigan 50 and Interstate 96. No injuries or arrests were reported.

It appeared that the strike might have an immediate effect on the auto production, which has been on the upsurge in recent months after last year's poor performance.

In Detroit, Richard Haupt, director of transportation and traffic for Ford Motor Co., said today the walkout "would have some immediate effect. In one week it could completely halt production of the company's cars and trucks in the U.S."

Aide defends secretary of state

Reagan in sweeping attack on policies of Ford, Kissinger

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan has made a sweeping attack on the Ford administration — from Henry Kissinger's handling of foreign policy to the economy.

In his first national television speech as a 1976 Republican presidential contender, Reagan said Wednesday night that Ford had not done a good job pulling the nation out of its recession.

But Reagan's most stinging remarks during the 30-minute national broadcast were in the area of foreign affairs.

He said he doesn't want to live "in a world where the Soviet Union is No. 1," and he quoted Kissinger as saying his job as secretary of state is to negotiate for an acceptable second-place position.

"Dr. Kissinger is quoted as saying that he thinks of the United States as Athens and the Soviet union as Sparta," said Reagan. "'The day of the United States is past,'" Reagan quoted Kissinger as saying, "'and today is the day of the Soviet Union.' And he added, '... My job as secretary of state is to negotiate the most acceptable second-best position available.'"

In Washington, Kissinger's top aide, Lawrence Eagleburger, said the quotation Reagan attributed to the secretary was false and "totally irresponsible."

Reagan did not cite a source for the statement he attributed to Kissinger, but a Reagan campaign spokesman said it came from Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, the former chief of Naval operations who now is running for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate in Virginia.

Zumwalt, who was reportedly in London and not immediately available for comment, has been sharply critical of Kissinger. Zumwalt made comments similar to those used by Reagan in his forthcoming book, "On Watch," in which he recounts what he says are notes taken after a meeting with Kissinger more than five years ago.

Reagan said peace will not come from weakness or retreat, "it comes from the restoration of American military superiority."

He said Americans should ask Eastern Europeans "what it's like to live in a world where the Soviet Union is No.1. I don't want to live in that kind of world and I don't think you do either."

On the economy, Reagan was critical of a bill passed by Congress and signed by Ford which gives pay raises to congressmen when the cost of living goes up.

Brown proposes major role for public on state panels

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Public members would control many state commissions that regulate California living under a massive Brown administration proposal.

The 17-bill package was unveiled Wednesday at a news conference by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s Agriculture and Services secretary, Rose Bird, and his Consumer Affairs Department chief, Taketsugu Takei.

They called it "one of the most sweeping sets of legislative proposals ever put forth on behalf of the consumer."

At issue are the numerous state boards and commissions in Takei's department, many of them historically dominated by representatives of the industries they regulate or license.

One proposal announced at the Capitol news conference would put a majority of public members on all boards and commissions except those dealing with medicine. A similar proposal was defeated in the legislature last year.

Health licensing boards would have one-third public membership.

Another bill would allow doctors and dentists to advertise in California, and another would set up an action group to plead the consumer cause on proposed utility rate increases.

Takei said the medical profession's watchdog board was exempted from the proposed legislation on public membership because a new law increased its public membership to seven of 19 members.

He added that "the greatest opposition to increase public members comes from the healing arts area."

Besides, he said, there is a need for technical knowledge in scientific areas, though he conceded that opponents may make the same argument for other boards.

Ms. Bird called the package an "ambitious" response to Brown's promise last January when he said in his State of the State address that the public should have more impact on government decisions.

She said public members should "make the boards and commissions more responsive to the public interest and give the public a more meaningful role in government, something I think has been lacking in the past."

Takei's department oversees boards that deal with areas such as funerals, contractors, barbers, athletic events, architects, cosmetology, nursing homes, pharmacies, pest control and income tax preparers.

He said many persons "look at a board and see it controlled by the industry" that it regulates, making decisions that tend to "maintain income at a high level."

Takei said he has long favored advertising by doctors to create competition and lower fees, and has advised his optometry board to drop its fight against optometrists' advertising.

He said the advertising should be restrained and dignified.

"We don't advocate neon lights, or someone on the street saying, 'Come and get your local attorney, five dollars.' "

Another proposal calls for a Residential Utility Consumer Action Group to give consumers a more powerful voice before the state Public Utilities Commission. It would be financed by a voluntary $2-per-year fee added to utility bills.

"I can't really say" the PUC has not protected the consumer, Takei said, "but an added viewpoint should be put forward for their consideration."

Other proposed measures would:

—Create state policy to promote direct marketing of agricultural products from farmers to consumers. "I think we have lost sight of the small farmer," Ms. Bird said. "It is no attempt to establish a state market, or hurt retail markets. It's an alternative...an attempt to utilize the county fair farmers' markets" approach.

—Require California courts to refuse to enforce consumer transactions that involve deceptive sales methods or other "sharp practices." Only California and Nevada have not adopted laws to recognize the so-called "doctrine of unconscionability."

A GRAND JUROR

Patricia Crowley, 10 months out of high school, has become the youngest person ever to serve on the San Francisco grand jury at 19. She believes young people should test their ideas by participating directly in government.

1,700 at NBC go on strike

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ignoring a federal call for extended negotiations, about 1,700 engineers and technicians went on strike against the National Broadcasting Co. today.

Spokesmen for the network said supervisors would man the video cameras and transmitters operated by the engineers and that the walkout would not affect NBC's regular programming.

A number of news writers in New York, Chicago and NBC's Burbank, Calif., studios also were expected to take part in the strike.

There were no further negotiations scheduled, Bernard Stoler, a negotiator for the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians (NABET), said.

The walkout began at 12:01 a.m. PST, ending more than six weeks of bargaining in San Diego between the network and NABET.

Richard Goldstein, NBC vice president in charge of labor relations, called the strike premature and unwise. NABET president Edward Lynch refused to talk to reporters after the strike was called.

On Wednesday, NBC accepted a last-minute proposal by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service to extend the old contract one month and resume bargaining talks in Washington on April 19.

But NABET refused, saying the federal offer "coincides with the company's objective of stalling the negotiations."

Walk, thumb, crowd taxis... Bay citizens grumble to jobs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trash swirled in the wind where tourist-clogged cable cars jingled only two days ago, and businessmen peddled bicycles or thumbed rides to work.

Some San Franciscans walked to work Wednesday in the first day of a strike by municipal workers that idled cable cars, streetcars and buses. Thousands took to their cars to do battle in traffic-snarled streets.

"I think this is real crazy," shouted Joann Kerbawy, 27, over a cold, whining wind. The neatly-dressed accounting clerk said she was hitchhiking "because it's the only thing left to do. I don't have a car and can't afford a cab."

As a car crammed with riders stopped to pick her up, a man in a business suit peddled furiously by. "You couldn't print what I have to say," he yelled, refusing to stop.

Union Square, usually pulsing with hurried shoppers and tourists, looked hauntingly barren. Only scattered crowds bustled down neon-glittered Powell Street — many of them on their way home from work.

Major department stores reported a sharp drop in sales, and small business owners echoed their concern for the business loss apparently caused by the strike.

"It's been terrible," a flower vender in the tourist area complained. "Business has dropped about 20 per cent today."

Taxi companies reported business booming, aided by Mayor George Moscone's declaration of a transportation emergency. The declaration allowed taxis to pick up multiple fares with destinations in the same direction.

The mayoral declaration also allowed the Jitney Bus Assoc., which operates 80 passenger buses that can carry 12 persons each, to expand from two to six routes downtown.

Perhaps most severely hit by the strike were the elderly and disabled, dependent upon public transportation to meet their daily needs.

The recently formed Senior Citizens Program of the Christian Community Crusaders set up free transportation to help the needy get to doctors and hospitals during the strike.

Labor leaders said picketing would spread today to two city-county hospitals. Four locals of the Service Employes International Union (SEIU), representing about 9,000 hospital, custodial, clerical and social workers, pledged to honor the picket lines.

However, the SEIU fell short of joining the strike, and that news buoyed City Hall hopes of avoiding a general walkout.

Mayor George Moscone said an agreement with the union will at least continue nursing and emergency services at the hospitals regardless of a picket line. However, 1,800 of the city's 2,500 hospital workers conceivably could honor the picket lines.

Union leaders and the city's Board of Supervisors met separately Wednesday night to map strike strategy and possible solutions.

The strike began Wednesday when 1,900 machinists, plumbers, electricians and others walked off their jobs over proposed cuts in pay. About 3,100 other city employes, including bus drivers, either refused to cross picket lines or stayed home in support of the strikers.

Thousands of high school students, who also ride buses to campus, failed to report to class. Attendance in the lower grades, however, was about normal.

Supervisory personnel kept sewage treatment plants operating, but recreational facilities including the city golf course and zoo were closed.

Police and firemen, who staged a one-week strike last August, remained on the job.

Injury suit: $350,000 now and $25,000 a year for life

VENTURA (AP) — A 16-year-old youth who suffered severe brain damage following a motorcycle accident two years ago will receive $350,000 in cash and $25,000 a year for life under terms of an out of court settlement.

The settlement, approved Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Robert R. Willard, also provides for a $100,000 insurance policy to be maintained for ten years with the youth's estate named as beneficiary.

Court records show that James M. Kelley was riding his motorcycle on a private road near Saticoy in eastern Ventura County. A metal cable strung across the road hit the boy in the throat and sent him flying 30 feet, the records said.

The youth, who was unconscious for five months, is still not able to speak or walk. His mother, Mrs. Billie McCloud, said she would use part of the settlement to build a house in Oklahoma to accomodate the youth's wheelchair.

Attilio Vanoni and other members of his family which operates the Rancho Attilio, where the accident occured, were defendants in the action.

Soliah a kindly man who fell for Patty—attorney

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Steven Soliah has been portrayed by his attorney as a compassionate man who went to the aid of a "very badly tormented" Patricia Hearst and later fell in love with her.

The lawyer, Sheldon Otis, denied that Soliah took part in a $15,000 Crocker National Bank robbery last April in which a customer was killed.

Otis made his comments Wednesday in an opening statement at Soliah's federal court trial.

U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes said in his opening remarks that two eyewitnesses and several fingerprints would implicate Soliah in the holdup.

Soliah, a 27-year-old house painter, is charged with helping take $15,000 at gunpoint from the Crocker National Bank branch in suburban Carmichael. Myrna Opsahl was killed by a shotgun blast during the robbery.

Authorities have announced no other indictments in the case, although the FBI says Miss Hearst rented a garage in which a robbery getaway car was stored.

Four robbers entered the bank while a fifth remained outside as a lookout, authorities say.

Otis told jurors that Soliah met Miss Hearst as she fled with Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris following the May 1974 Los Angeles shootout in which six SLA members were killed.

He said his client found Miss Hearst to be a "very troubled young woman" who was afraid to turn herself in or remain with the Harrises.

"Evidence will show that figuratively his door was knocked upon by Miss Hearst and others seeking help," Otis said. "The only way he could respond was to help those persons protect and save their lives.

"Whatever Miss Hearst was into, whatever her friends were into, for Mr. Soliah it was a close personal relationship for a very troubled woman."

You think you have a problem understanding tax booklet...

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you can't understand the instructions on your Internal Revenue Service Form 1040, don't worry: neither can college graduate students who routinely pore through complex technical papers.

That's the conclusion reached after a year-long study by a reading comprehension expert at California State University at Los Angeles.

Dr. Fred Pyrczak said he devised a vocabulary test based on words found in that ever-popular booklet. Thirty-five graduate students, most of them teachers studying for their master's degrees, were asked to define the words and then apply them to items chosen from the instruction booklet.

"To my surprise, my graduate students did well on the first half," said Pyrczak, "but when it came to applying these principles, their scores were so low that one could have surmised they were functionally illiterate."

Pyrczak rewrote some sections of the instruction book and then repeated part of the test.

"The results of the second experiment demonstrated that by just revising the passages, these students...performed 25 per cent better than their average performance using the original passages," he said.

He said that in rewriting the book he shortened the sentences and used less difficult words.

Pyrczak sent the results of his study — as well as his recommendation that the IRS try to improve the booklet — to IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander.

The associate professor of education said he got a reply saying consideration would be given to the findings.

Part of Alexander's reply to Pyrczak said, "We regret that due to our critical budget situation we are unable to fund further studies you have in mind."

Quinlans can pull plug

Can turn off life-sustaining respirator, court rules

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — "This is the decision we have been praying for," said Julia Quinlan after learning her 22-year-old comatose daughter may be allowed to begin the natural process of dying.

The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled Wednesday the mechanical respirator keeping Karen Anne Quinlan alive for nearly a year in a "vegetative state" could be removed if doctors agree her condition is hopeless.

In a 7 to 0 decision, the court appointed Joseph Quinlan legal guardian of his daughter and said he could let her die if competent medical authorities decide the girl's condition is irreversible and that there is no reasonable possibility of her recovery.

She has been in a coma at St. Clare's Hospital in nearby Denville since April 15, 1975, after apparently ingesting alcohol and tranquilizers.

The state attorney general's office said there would be no immediate decision on whether to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, the only avenue of appeal. The Quinlans said they would give the state time to consider an appeal before asking to have the respirator disconnected.

"We hope at the last minute the Lord will take her and we won't have to remove her from her respirator," the girl's father said.

But, he added, they will order the life support treatment stopped if left with that decision.

The Quinlans, flanked by three Roman Catholic priests at their parish church in Mount Arlington, sat calmly and faced a room full of reporters on Wednesday night. They discussed the court's decision that their daughter and others who are beyond medical restoration have a right to die, based on the constitutional protection of personal privacy.

Two days earlier, they had observed their daughter's 22nd birthday at a private Mass.

"There is no hope and there hasn't been any," said Mrs. Quinlan, who told reporters she wept when the family lawyer, Paul Armstrong, telephoned from Trenton to tell them of the decision.

"I feel this responsibility has been put on us by God. We have to act on it. Once we made our decision, we never had any doubt," Quinlan said.

The Quinlans said their daughter's condition has not changed since last October, when one doctor said she was in "a persistent vegetative state."

"There is no hope, and there hasn't been any," said her mother. "If there were, we would never have been able to make this decision."

At a State House news conference earlier, the family's lawyer said the ruling leaves Quinlan "free to return his daughter to her natural life processes."

Armstrong added somberly, "If those processes can't support her, she will die."

State Atty. Gen. William F. Hyland said he has never opposed appointment of Quinlan as his daughter's guardian "as long as there were adequate safeguards imposed by the courts on his powers. I think the decision accomplishes this."

Morris County Prosecutor Donald G. Collester, who also opposed the Quinlans, said, "I am freed now from prosecuting people who act with mercy and love in accordance with the Supreme Court's standards."

In its landmark decision, the court rejected the Quinlans' contentions that constitutional protections of freedom of religion and against cruel and unusual punishment provided a basis for ruling in their favor.

In an opinion written by Chief Justice Richard J. Hughes, the justices said that doctors claimed removing Miss Quinlan from the respirator conflicts with their professional judgement, but they agreed with her father that the apparatus "at best can only prolong her inevitable slow deterioration and death."

Thus, the court said, if a medical point is reached beyond which there is no hope, then an individual's constitutional right to privacy dictates that the privilege of choosing death takes precedence over the duty of the state to preserve human life.

Decline too good to last; grocery bills are going up

Supermarket shoppers who had been enjoying lower prices in the first part of 1976 found during March that the savings were too good to last, an Associated Press market-basket survey shows.

Increases for a wide range of items boosted the family grocery bill last month, although prices generally were lower than they were at the start of the year.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, checked the price in one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed a few price decreases during March — pork chops declined in eight cities, for example, and eggs in 10. But increases for butter, all-beef frankfurters and coffee offset the savings.

The marketbasket total at the checklist store was up during March in eight of the cities surveyed, increasing an average of 2.8 per cent. The total was down at the checklist store in four cities, decreasing an average 3.2 per cent, and was unchanged at the survey store in the 13th city, Miami. On an over-all basis, the marketbasket total at the start of April was a little less than 1 per cent higher than it was a month earlier.

During February, in contrast, the marketbasket total declined at the checklist store in 12 cities for an over-all monthly drop of 2.4 per cent.

A comparison of prices now and at the start of the year showed encouraging news. The marketbasket total was down at the checklist store in 12 cities, with an average drop of about 3 per cent. The only increase was at the checklist store in Dallas, where the marketbasket total went up a little less than 1 per cent.

The March increases did not follow a consistent pattern in most cases. Items that were up in one city went down in another, reflecting local sales and specials rather than a general price trend.

Government officials have predicted that food prices will rise about 1 per cent during each of the first two quarters of this year, a smaller increase than in 1975. They are reluctant to forecast what will happen during the rest of 1976 since a lot depends on the size of summer harvests.

Agricultural costs actually account for less than half the retail price of most foods, with charges for things such as packaging, transportation and labor making up the rest. At the same time, however, an increase or decrease in the amount paid to farmers can provide at least a partial clue as to future retail prices.

The lower pork prices in the latest AP survey reflect lower prices at the farm level. One reason is that the hog supply increased as the cost of feed grain came down. Increased cattle supplies also meant lower beef prices — particularly in the first two months of the year — and competition helped drive down pork prices.

A look at the over-all number of items in the AP survey showed more increases and fewer decreases during March than during February. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	Feb.	Mar.
Up	20.0	20.0	23.6
Down	26.7	23.6
Unchanged	50.3	49.7
Unavailable	3.0	3.1

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

N.Y. transit strike averted

NEW YORK (AP) — Fiscally strapped New York City averted a potentially crippling transit strike early today when negotiators for city bus and subway workers tentatively agreed to accept a two-year labor contract that provides point-for-point cost-of-living raises.

About 30 minutes before the 34,000 members of the local Transit Workers Union were due to strike, Transit Authority Chairman David Yunich announced, "I have some good news for all New Yorkers. We have reached an agreement."

Yunich said the agreement calls for a cost-of-living hike of one cent an hour for each .3-point increase in the city's cost-of-living index, meaning the transit workers' pay — which now averages $16,541 a year — will increase as inflation does.

Denial by Simon

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Treasury Secretary William Simon says he never referred to former President Richard Nixon as "a wind-up doll" as reported in the "The Final Days," a book written by Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein about Nixon's last days in office.

"That certainly is an inaccurate statement . . . I have not read the book, nor do I intend to read the book. I have read excerpts, including that passage I am supposed to have said," Simon told reporters Wednesday. He called the book "a slimy invasion of an individual's privacy."

Last flight

TOULOUSE, France (AP) — Andre Turcat, the French test pilot for the first flight of the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic airliner, has made his last flight in the aircraft.

Turcat, director of flight testing for the French cobuilders of the Concorde, Aerospatiale, was 55 on Wednesday and reached the age limit for test flying.

Rubenstein to get Medal of Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP) — Polish-born Arthur Rubinstein is receiving at the White House today the highest U.S. award to a civilian in tribute to his talent as one of the world's greatest pianists.

It has been a long time coming. Rubinstein made his American debut more than 70 years ago, in January 1906 with the Philadelphia Orchestra in New York's Carnegie Hall.

That was half a century before the U.S. government created the Medal of Freedom, which President Ford planned to bestow on the famed musician today.

In the meantime, Rubinstein has been honored with awards from France, Portugal, Spain, Belgium, Poland, Chile and other countries and by many cities and universities.

Simon sees ray of hope in solving N.Y.'s financial ills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told Congress today he is cautiously optimistic that New York City can solve its financial problems.

Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee which heard Simon's testimony, said the city must succeed because Congress will not extend its government's loan or provide the city any other federal help after June 1978.

"Looking at the balance of the three-year (loan) period, there is now a basis for a degree of cautious optimism ..," Simon said. "I believe the job can be done and done within the allotted time frame. I believe the job can be done without disrupting essential services.

"And, most importantly, I believe the rewards of doing the job well and properly are potentially enormous."

Proxmire opened two days of hearings to determine how New York City is doing on the pledges of fiscal responsibility promises made last year when city and state officials were trying to convince Congress and the Ford administration to approve emergency federal loans to the city.

New York City's fiscal responsibility promises include balancing its budget and overhauling its accounting system, which has been compared to a Byzantine paper maze.

"There is no way we'll extend the (emergency loan) act," Proxmire said as the hearing got underway. "There is no way we'll increase the appropriation or bail out New York City after June 30, 1978."

2 women, man held in holdup

Two women and a man were seized on robbery charges Wednesday night in Pomona after a witness to a tavern holdup, a former policeman, followed the robbers to an apartment building and then called police.

The three arrested were Katheryn Richie, 32, and Janet Arlene Mobley, 29, both of 1053 Patterson St., where the arrests took place, and Allen Julian, 39, of 10787 Monte Vista Ave., Montclair.

The holdup was at Bump's Tavern, 896 E. Mission Blvd., where a masked man, armed with a long-barrelled shotgun, and two women companions forced the customers to empty their pockets on the bar shortly after 7:30. Bartender Howard E. Scrafford, 50, had to surrender money from the cash register and his wallet.

One of the women arrived at the tavern a few minutes before the holdup and ordered a beer. She joined the man and his companion in the holdup later, officers were told.

After forcing the customers to surrender more than $600, the trio ordered them into a restroom. It was at that point that the witness, a Montclair man, began to enter the tavern. He saw what was happening and told his companion to call police. When the three robbers left the place, he followed their car to the apartment building on Patterson Street and directed officers there.

Police sealed off the area and then entered the building to arrest Mrs. Richie, Mrs. Mobley and Julian as suspects in the robbery.

Officers reported that they recovered the loot taken from the tavern customers.

Burglary suspect

A young Claremont man was arrested Wednesday morning on suspicion of being one of two men who burglarized the home of a vacationing Pomona city planner in Pomona.

The suspect, John William Blumenfeld, 18, of 182 Kirkwood Ave., was taken into custody in the backyard patio at the residence of Sanford A. Sorensen after police were called by suspicious neighbors. The neighbors said they saw two men try the front door of the Sorensen home and then walk to the rear of the two-story residence. Blumenfeld was arrested by Sgt. Charles E. Denbow and booked on suspicion of burglary.

Investigation revealed that the patio door had been pried open as well as a second-floor basement window. One bedroom had been ransacked but officers could not determine whether anything had been taken.

Arresting officers reported that Blumenfeld told them he was in the neighborhood looking for a dog to buy.

Woman robbed

Maxine Wilson of 375 W. Alpine St. complained to UPLAND police that she was robbed by a knife-wielding man at Palm Avenue and Arrow Highway Wednesday night.

Mrs. Wilson said she was walking down the street when a man approached her and flashed a knife. The man grabbed her purse containing a small amount of cash and fled.

She described the man as a white, 22, of thin build, with dark shoulder length hair and a beard. He was wearing a knee length coat and white pants.

Cause of death?

Stun gun, head blow or arrow

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities are investigating the death of a 41-year-old tobacco importer who was shot with the electronic stun gun, bludgeoned and shot with a crossbow.

Police said Raymond Abdurrezzuk Adem was found in the trunk of a car in North Hollywood, an arrow protruding from his chest.

James Edward Coltman, 30, and Jessica Ray Pacino, 23, earlier had been arrested in Adem's ransacked West Los Angeles apartment after neighbors, hearing a disturbance, called police. The two were subsequently booked for investigation of murder.

The actual cause of Adem's death was not immediately known, but police said they were not ruling out that he might have died as a result of the Taser, the so-called stun gun which has been used to injure and render helpless its victims.

Some 150 individuals from the valley will attend a National Chicano Forum to be held May 27-30 at the Salt Palace in Salt Lake City, Utah.

According to Armando Navarro, former Cucamonga resident now serving as assistant director to the Hinckley Institute of Politics at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, the forum is being held to determine the status of the Chicano movement in the United States.

The principal speaker will be Ernesto Galarza of San Jose, a retired writer and educator who as an activist intellectual helped organize the farm labor movement in California in the 1950s.

Navarro, who holds a doctorate in political science from UC Riverside, said questions to be answered are who and where the leaders of the Chicano movement are, what the concerns of Chicanos are today and what directions the Chicano movement will take.

The forum is being organized by Chicanos in Utah. Navarro said they are expecting representation from lay people, students, professional and civic and national leaders.

"The Utah location is seen as especially suitable for encouraging dialogue among Chicanos because it is not dominated by any particular ideology, organization or leader," said Navarro.

The idea for the forum developed as a result of a Chicano Awareness Week held at the University of Utah a year ago. It drew such national Chicano leaders as Rodolfo Acuna of Northridge, Rodolfo "Corky" Gonzales of Denver, Colo., and Jose Angel Gutierrez and Raul Ruiz of Los Angeles. More than 600 university and high school students attended. It was decided that a forum on the status and direction of the Chicano movement should be held in 1976.

A National Chicano Forum Steering Committee was organized in November. It is headed by Navarro and Abelardo Delgado, Chicano studies professor at the University of Utah and a native of Texas.

"Utah is a politically virgin territory, without any dominant Chicano group or national leader," said Navarro. He anticipates 1,500 will attend the forum.

In determining the status of the Chicano movement, Chicanos collectively must define upon new courses of action, he continued.

"With the problems that continue to plague American society, it becomes imperative for us as a people to reconsolidate our energies and resources in continuing our struggle for self-determination."

Navarro said Mexican-Americans are "a growing political force" in the United States, particularly in the Southwest. According to his figures, there are 12 million Mexican-Americans in the United States (four million in California), and that number is expected to rise to 20 million by 1990.

"The power relationships in the Southwest are going to be changing," Navarro said.

Additional information regarding the forum may be obtained by calling Navarro at 801 581-6455 or writing him at National Chicano Forum, Building 463, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah 84112.

Black engineers to confer at Poly

The National Society of Black Engineers (NSBE) will hold its second national conference Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Cal Poly's Kellogg West.

NSBE was founded in 1975 at a national conference of black student engineering organizations at Purdue University. This upcoming conference will complete the foundation of NSBE laid at the first conference, elect new national officers and set goals and programs.

Pertinent topics in engineering and science will be discussed.

Among those attending will be; Lee Cherry of the African Scientific Institute in San Francisco, Dr. Jocelyn Whiten of Martin Luther King Medical Center in Los Angeles, Lavoy Spooner of the Committee on Minorities in Engineering and the National Research Council in Washington, D.C., and Garvey Clark, president of the National Fund for Minority Engineering Students.

Workshops and panels will examine such topics as "The Impact of Engineering on Medicine," "The Social Consciousness of Black Engineers and Scientists," "The Engineering Needs of Black Nations," "The Impact of Technology on Black Society" and "Programs and Institutions That Finance and Control Black Engineering Student Education."

The conference is sponsored by the Los Angeles Consortium of the NSBE. This consortium includes the campuses of Cal Poly, Caltech of Pasadena, USC, Loyola University, Northrop University, UCLA, UC Irvine and Cal State Los Angeles, Northridge, Long Beach and Fullerton.

Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. Friday in the Educational Center of Kellogg West.

The preliminary hearing of a San Gabriel man accused of a double slaying in La Verne Feb. 22 was continued Wednesday in Pomona Municipal Court until April 27.

The ruling was made by Judge Robert C. Gustaveson because a witness is ill. The continuance was requested by the prosecution.

The defendent, Don Merrill Fitzjohn, 30, is charged with shooting to death his estranged wife and her companion in her apartment at 2421 Foothill Blvd. that Sunday morning. The victims were Jeannie Beth Fitzjohn, 30, and Gary Ernest Keltz, 35. The two Fitzjohn children were present at the time and one witnessed her mother being shot, investigators reported.

Later, the suspect turned himself in to a friend on the West Covina Police Department. The friend subsequently turned him over to La Verne police.

Witness tells of suspect's drug bout

Jerry Miller testified Tuesday that he and his brother Steven were "extremely loaded" on a drug called PCP and beer the night of Oct. 14 when a Red Bluff man was shot to death in an Ontario motel.

Steven Miller is on trial in West Valley Superior Court on two counts of murder.

Jerry Miller on the witness stand told the jury that he, Steven, and Edwin Michael Huntsman on at least two occasions "snorted" phencyclidine (PCP) on Oct. 14. The younger Miller testified that they were still loaded when they went to the motel room of Theodore Kirts. He said that he remembered his brother coming into the room and confronting Kirts with a rifle. He said he remembered his brother struggling with Kirts and the sound of several shots.

The shots fired in the motel room that night killed Huntsman. Kirts, who fired the shots, said the Miller brothers and Huntsman were trying to rob him of some money he had just received for the sale of a car.

Also taking the witness stand on Monday was Don Bowen, brother-in-law of Steven and Jerry Miller, and Linda Bowen, their sister. She testified that Steven Miller became involved in the use of various drugs earlier in 1975 after he had a motorcycle stolen.

Don Bowen said that Steven Miller was a heroin addict, and the day of Oct. 14 he seemed to be under the influence.

Steven Miller's attorney, Michael Welch, contends that Miller was under the influence of PCP and other drugs at the time of the Huntsman shooting and the following day when he allegedly shot Ontario Police Officer Richard Hyche to death.

5 to 7% tax hike looms for Pomona

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A five to six per cent increase in taxes for Pomona was projected this week as city, county and school officials began preparing their budgets for the fiscal year that starts July 1.

The increases, if approved, would virtually guarantee Pomona's position once more as one of the five most tax burdened cities in Los Angeles County.

A study of preliminary budgets shows that the increases would raise taxes on a $30,000 home in Pomona by $40 to $67 next year, depending on what tax levy is used. Total taxes would go from the present $1,086 to $1,126, at the lower tax rate and to $1,153 at the higher figures.

The present tax rate of $14.48 per $100 of assessed valuation would go anywhere from $15 to $15.38. Homes are generally assessed at about one fourth of their actual market value.

The largest boost in taxes is expected to come from the county. L.E. Halstead, chief of the budget team of the county's administration office, says the current tax rate of $4.52 may have to be raised by between 27 cents and 38 cents, depending on what the Board of Supervisors wants to leave in the budget.

He said the 38-cent rate could be cut somewhat by slicing subsidies and appropriations to such projects as the Southern California Rapid Transit District and community projects.

Further cuts could be made, Halstead said, by freezing capital projects, cutting back on hiring additional personnel and on overtime which amounted to $16.4 million during the first half of the current fiscal year.

Pomona probably will find it necessary to raise its own tax rate for the first time in three years.

Mayor Ray Lepire said earlier indications that the city would need a 28 per cent increase have been revised. He said a more realistic figure is a 10 per cent raise — about 25 cents — which would hike the city's tax rate from $2.49 to $2.75.

He said the tax increase can be held to 10 per cent if the city can find additional revenue elsewhere. He proposes to place a tax on admissions to the Los Angeles County Fair, to increase business license fees and boost entertainment taxes. The city already has increased water rates.

Lepire said the major cause of the projected tax increase is the uncertainty of future revenue sharing funds. Up to now the city has been using those funds to subsidize the cost of retirement. The mayor said continued dependence on revenue sharing would cause a crisis if that federal allotment ended. Therefore, he proposes a 28-cent retirement levy to foot the bill.

But the mayor said the picture may become much more favorable if all the federal participation comes through. He said the city could get all or part of about $4 million in revenue sharing and Housing and Urban Development grants during next year.

The most complicated budget formula is the one used by the Pomona Unified School District whose two-year override ends next year.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent in charge of finances, explains that the budget is no longer based on tax rates but on the cost of educating the average pupil, which last year came to $1,073.79.

Last year the district used $68.65 in override funds to reach that figure. This appeared as a 65-cent increase on the school tax bill.

This year, he said the district is entitled to more money from the state because of a highly complicated formula that takes into consideration the increase in average daily attendance, the rise in assessed valuation and a hike in unsecured rolls.

But Rountree says the board is also considering the use of the entire $81.32 override to continue forming a "cushion" for the future.

The additional money is expected to generate about $1½ million in undistributed reserves, adding to a $3½ million surplus already on hand. Rountree says he feels the surplus is necessary as protection when the override expires. He says it may take years for the state's current school tax equalization bill to become effective and the surplus will protect the district from deficits.

Need for money floating upward for city, school district and county mainly because of uncertainty about federal, state aid

He claims that under the complex state formula the additional override will not necessarily mean an increase in taxes. He estimated the tax rate may fluctuate four or five cents in either direction.

"I realize this is an extremely complicated formula," Rountree admitted. "It must have been made up by some genius in Sacramento. But eventually it will provide a fair distribution of funds throughout the state."

He said he could only speak for himself and not the board when he discussed the possibility of using the entire override to build up the surplus.

He said the board will consider the budget for several more months.

Taxes levied by sources other than the school board, the county and the city are expected to have only a negligible effect on local taxes.

As usual, all taxing agencies are promising to hold the line by keeping their needs to a minimum.

Mystery of the lonely house is revealed ...well, well, well

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

It's a quaint little house which sits alone on a great big lot.

It has no mailbox and draws very few door-to-door solicitors.

No children are ever seen playing in the front yard, and there are no over-the-fence visits with the neighbors.

The redwood structure with its shake shingle roof provides a shelter for a water well and pump rather than people.

The City of Ontario built the residential-type structure on Euclid Avenue adjacent to the San Bernardino Freeway to make the pumping apparatus more compatible with the neighborhood and also to muffle some of the pump sounds.

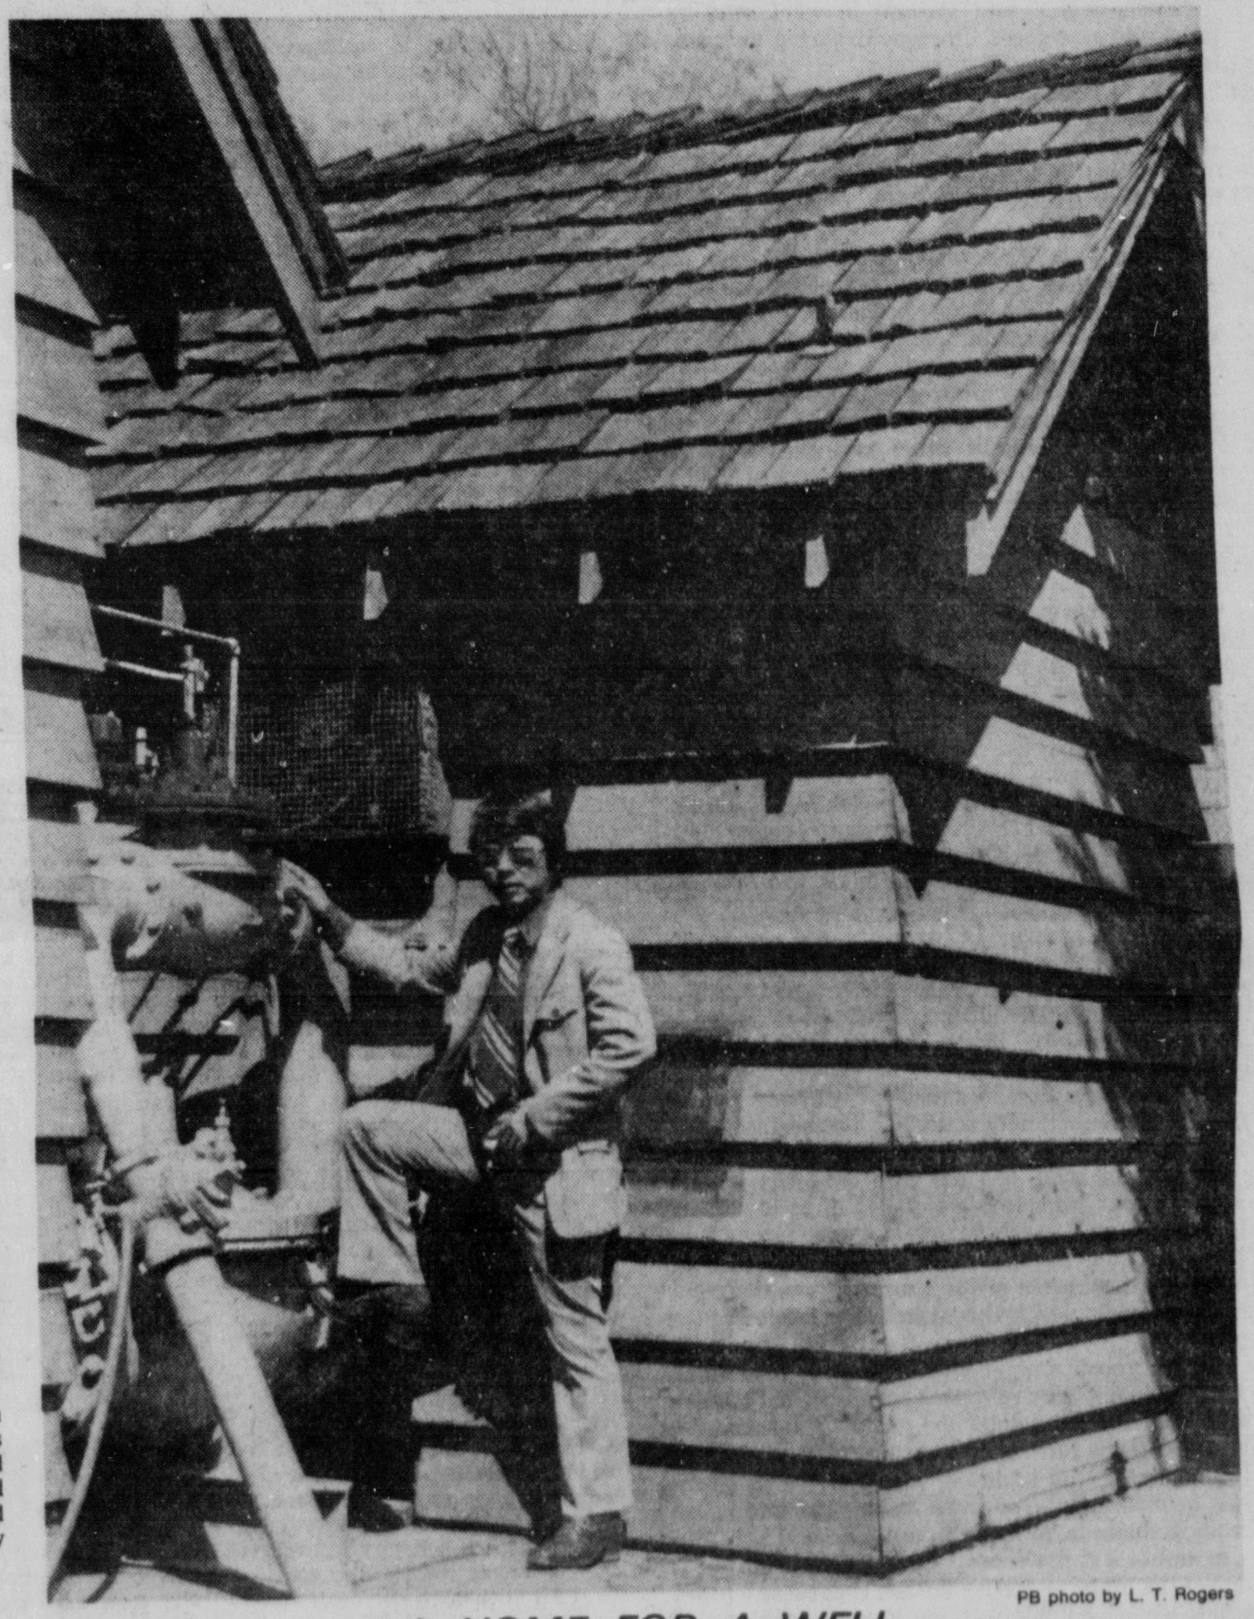

A wood fence was recently added when some residents complained of the well pump noise. No complaints have since been registered, said Jay Kim, the city's acting city engineer.

The disguise apparently has been successful as the structure appears like another home to the many motorists who travel Euclid Avenue daily.

The city also constructed a "modern design" building for its well pump on Philadelphia Street east of Euclid Avenue. This structure is surrounded by landscaping which serves to screen the operation from adjacent residents.

In addition, wood slats have been woven into a chain link fence to screen the operation to persons traveling on Philadelphia Street.

"The city seeks to make these wells blend in with the residential areas as much as possible," said Kim.

Bugliosi will be main speaker at We T.I.P. session

Vincent Bugliosi, chief prosecutor of Charles Manson and his followers and author of the book "Helter-Skelter," will be the keynote speaker at the state We Turn in Pushers, Inc., (We T.I.P.) convention Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Airport Marina Hotel in Inglewood.

Attending the convention will be numerous valley community leaders and their colleagues from other communities throughout the state.

Master of ceremonies for the awards banquet Saturday night will be Tom Frandsen, vice president of KHJ-TV.

Bill Brownell, state director of We T.I.P. said the past year's successes in the program will be reviewed in order to give interested community leaders ideas of how to improve the program in their own communities.

Brownell said:

"During We T.I.P.'s four years of operation it has enabled concerned citizens to help law enforcement agencies with 1,138 arrests, 631 convictions, and seizures of illegal drugs valued over $16,800,000."

The program to create total community involvement in support of law enforcement is working in many communities in California. The job of law enforcement is difficult at best and until recently there were few ways in which law enforcement could elicit the help of citizens that they protect, Brownell said.

Puente man killed in Ariz.

A La Puente man was shot to death in Phoenix, Ariz., by a patrolman Wednesday night after the man shot and wounded the officer's partner, authorities said.

Lt. Richard Draper identified the victim as Artis Lee Archie, 38.

Patrolman Andrew Baxter, 28, was shot once in the foot by Archie while the two men wrestled for Baxter's revolver, Draper said. Baxter underwent surgery and was in danger of losing several toes.

Draper and Patrolman Steven Durham, 25, shot Archie three times in the stomach after Archie managed to get Baxter's weapon and wounded the officer, Draper said. He said Baxter was giving Archie a sobriety test on the sidewalk.

Ontarians living under OIA flight pattern file claims

Some Ontario residents who live under the flight pattern of Ontario International Airport have filed a $9 million claim for damages with city clerks in both Ontario and Los Angeles.

The claims represent 70 properties in the city's southeast sector. The group was represented by Adrian Meewis, Mrs. John Jiminez and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Madsen. The group's attorney is John J. Schimmenti of El Segundo.

The group is seeking $50,000 in property damages for each property plus $15,000 in personal injuries for each person. The total damages was estimated at $9 million, said DeLoris Arterburn, city clerk.

The claim for damages included 10 pages of exhibits representing the 70 properties. The claimants are seeking damages for nuisance, inverse condemnation and personal injuries created by the airport operations.

Euclid rail crossing project has low priority with state

Construction of a Euclid Avenue grade separation in Ontario has received a low priority from the California Public Utilities Commission.

But city officials are hopeful the project will advance on the state index by 1979 when they hope to begin construction.

The Public Utilities Commission has placed the Euclid Avenue separation 56th on a list of 86 projects within the state, said Jay Kim, Ontario's assistant city engineer.

He appeared Tuesday before the commission in Los Angeles to support the city's proposed project. Also attending was Dale King, a consulting engineer, to give testimony on a proposed overpass on Grove Avenue above the Union Pacific Railroad tracks. That project is listed 58th on the index.

Estimated cost of the Euclid Avenue grade separation is $6.3 million, with the city paying $630,000, state, $5,040,000 and the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads, $630,000.

The state has allocated $15 million in its new fiscal year budget for projects throughout the state, said Kim. "There are 55 projects above us and most are expensive," he added.

Kim protested the state's formula in penalizing expensive projects when deciding priorities.

"The two sets of railroad tracks at Euclid Avenue are 450 feet apart," he said. "These are too far apart for single separations and it is expensive for one separation over both sets of tracks."

Kim testified the city has its share of the cost set aside for construction. He also emphasized that an average of 12 emergency vehicles per day use the crossing. These include police cars, fire trucks and ambulances.

In addition, the street crossing handles 24 Omnitrans buses and 46 school buses per day.

But before construction can begin, the city and residents must first decide on a design, said Kim. Discussions have included proposals to build an overpass, underpass and even depressing the railroad tracks under Euclid Avenue.

Officials plan to conduct public hearings later this year and the evaluate testimony early next year before preparing an environmental impact report.

They plan to complete the design and acquire right-of-way property and obtain railroad agreements by late 1978 and hope to start construction during March of 1979.

"By then, we hope to be high on the state priority list. We are making progress, since the project was 73rd last year."

Regarding the Grove Avenue overpass, the cost is estimated at $2.6 million. Design work on this project hasn't been completed.

An underpass was constructed several years ago under the Southern Pacific railroad tracks. The two sets of tracks at this location are about a fourth mile apart.

Ontario has also constructed an overpass on Mountain Avenue above the two sets of railroad tracks.

Revenue sharing may be best way

Nearly 2,000 mayors and city officials from around the country descended on Washington the other day to plump for renewal and expansion of federal revenue sharing, and few were the voices heard on Capitol Hill to oppose them.

At a joint gathering of the National League of Cities and United States Conference of Mayors, mayor after mayor warned of the consequences if revenue sharing—formally known as the State and Local Assistance Act of 1972 — were not renewed. The legislation is due to expire at the end of this year.

Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., for example, said his city would have to give up its police and fire departments no less. Mayor Hans G. Tanzler Jr. of Jacksonville, Fla., said his city would have to raise taxes by 30 per cent. Mayor John S. Ballard of Akron, Ohio, said that capital improvements in his city would have to be deferred and street maintenance would be seriously impaired.

"Each year," said Ballard in what may be a prophetic statement, "revenue sharing looms as a more critical need for the city."

Even President Gerald Ford, not otherwise renowned as an advocate of big government spending, joined the mayoral chorus and lashed out at Congress' hesitation to extend revenue sharing for another five years and nine months, as he has proposed.

By Dec. 31, 1976, revenue sharing will have paid out $30.2 billion to the 50 states and some 39,000 communities. Under the President's plan, they would receive $39.85 billion more over the next five and three-quarter years.

However, a subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations has cut the President's recommendation to three years and nine months, with no increase in funding, and by way of retaining some kind of congressional control over the program, has amended the renewal legislation to provide for year-by-year appropriations.

What has revenue sharing wrought, besides helping the nation's financially strapped cities meet payrolls and fill chuckholes?

A study by the Tax Foundation in 1974 found that the bulk of the funds were being spent on routine housekeeping expenses and very little on social betterment programs, such as health care. The League of Women Voters apparently speaks for a number of organizations when it claims that revenue sharing "is plagued with deficiencies and should be overhauled or allowed to lapse."

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the Government Operations Committee and one of the few legislators calling for an outright end to the program, laments that revenue sharing had drained $30 billion from the federal treasury, "and no one is directly accountable to the taxpayers for how it is being spent."

At the same time, contrary testimony comes from a rather unlikely source — the business sector.

Revenue sharing has not only done the job for which it was intended, but it has done it without building a new bureaucracy in Washington, says Dayton, Ohio, businessman Thomas B. Andrews, head of a task force of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which recommends extension of the program.

Unlike most new federal spending programs, Andrews points out, revenue sharing did not require a new staff to administer the funds. "Overhead," a businessman's term for operating costs, is "almost infinitesimal." In addition, he says, the program has been scandal-free even while distributing so many billions to so many communities.

In summary, if we must have federal subsidization of the cities — and no one has suggested a more politically acceptable solution to their problems in this election year — revenue sharing would seem to be the best way to go about it.

The question is thus not whether revenue sharing will be continued, but for how long and for how much more.

More like a labor union

Dear Editor:

The Claremont Faculty Association is in the process of drafting a master contract in anticipation of collective bargaining for teachers as prescribed by Senate Bill No. 160 (Rodda). It would be a "Bilateral and binding agreement" between the governing board of Claremont School District and the "Association" (C-FA/CTA/NEA).

The master contract is a cumbersome document, comprising 35 articles. I am concerned that many teachers may not have taken time for careful study of the articles, and would, therefore, not be aware of some serious matters concerning their future professional relations.

One statement set forth which does not seem to be compatible with SB 160 is found in Article XII, Item 2. It states that an employe must become a member of the Association, or pay a fee in an amount equal to dues and other assessment, or be discharged from employment.

SB 160 states that "This bill would enact provisions which would . . . Grant employes the right to form, join, and participate in employe organizations for the purpose of representation and the right to refuse to join, or participate in employe organizations."

We do have a choice — not much, considering that collective bargaining is now law. I feel that the concept of collective bargaining unfortunately eliminates the wholesome competititive spirit which has always served as a basis for "jobs well done," and substitutes pat answers and demands, not necessarily always in the best interests of students or teachers. It is a transfer of personal choice of representation to a compulsory single representation wherein others may mandate matters that could affect us adversely, that we cannot influence, and which, as individuals, we might not endorse.

I believe that the master contract now being devised would inordinately limit the governing board's authority and responsibility. It would cause an imbalance between administration and the teachers' organization, thus resulting in teacher representation more like a current labor union than representation of a professional staff.

However, Claremont has a number of excellent teacher leaders, and I am confident that they will eliminate some of the ill-advised items appearing in the master contract draft. They have solicited staffs' suggestions, and we should keep informed and help regulate education in our community as we feel it should be.

Finally — as a citizen (and teacher), I would like also to express my support of school board members Bill Anderson, Beverly Shacklett, and Ernie Taylor, and opposition to recall of these three. In my opinion, these board members have conducted the business of the school district with dignity, propriety, intelligence, and total integrity. — Dixie Black, Claremont

Social Security frauds

WASHINGTON — Millions of dollars in fraudulent Social Security payments are doled out each year to Americans living abroad and to foreigners with past U.S. employment records.

Investigators turned up one Mexican entrepreneur, named Benjamin Herrera Florez, who forged false Social Security claims for a fee. He actually had the audacity to advertise on the radio, they reported, that he would "fix papers for anyone with a problem regarding United States pensions."

Each month, the Social Security Administration pays out more than $43 million a month to about 30,000 beneficiaries in 100 countries. Validation surveys of 10 foreign countries are conducted every four years.

The latest report states that "significant overpayments" were discovered in Greece, Mexico and the Philippines. Typical are these excerpts from the report on Mexico:

— Nearly $4 million a month is paid to 40,388 beneficiaries in Mexico. The report reveals they collected $1.8 million in overpayments during a seven-year period.

— Many are collecting retirement benefits, although they have neglected to retire. Investigators discovered, for example, that some Mexican vendors who sold souvenirs to American tourists had an illegal side income from U.S. Social Security.

— Child support checks went to 2,213 alleged mothers who actually had no children in their care. In other cases, the children had died, but the mothers went on collecting the child care.

— In one fraud case, a baptismal certificate showed a son's birth date to be June 27, 1955. But "upon attempting to verify the document," states the report, "it was learned that the child actually had been born on June 27, 1935, and had died in 1938." The unscrupulous parent pocketed $1,545 in overpayments.

A spokesman for the Social Security Administration told us the amount of overpayments, although huge, is relatively small compared to the annual $91.4 billion paid out in benefits around the world. The Mexican government cooperated in the investigation.

PENTAGON PROFITS — The good will of the munitions industry is apparently more important to President Ford than money in the bank.

At the same time that he is calling for budget cutbacks, his Administration is quietly sabotaging legislation that would return millions in excess military profits to the federal treasury.

The billion-dollar-battle centers upon the obscure Federal Renegotiation Board. This is the office that is supposed to referee the great corporate scramble for federal contracts and prevent profiteering.

Not long ago, the House voted overwhelmingly to strengthen the board. But the Ford Administration, in the name of "reorganization," is quietly undercutting the reforms.

This has aroused Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., who has fired off a private letter to Renegotiation Chairman Richard Holmquist condemning the reorganization plan. "You are attempting to unilaterally frustrate the will of the U.S. Congress," Brooks accused.

Rep. Joseph Minish, D-N.J., has also written Holmquist to complain that the reorganization effort is "patently illogical and manifestly inappropriate."

Minish expressed wonderment that Holmquist now opposes legislation, which he previously supported. The Congressman recalled that Holmquist had told a House aide in January that "if I were a Congressman, I would vote for H.R. 10608," the bill strengthening the Renegotiation Board.

BUTZ'S BOY — It is quite legal for cabinet members to campaign for their President, but they aren't supposed to use civil servants as advance men.

Nevertheless, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz sent a government-paid subordinate to Illinois early last month to make the advance arrangements for a political barnstorming trip.

The advance man was Gary Madson, who is paid by the taxpayers to help adminster the Rural Development Service, not to run political interference for the Secretary.

But Madson is a more qualified politician than agriculture administrator. As a member of the Committee to ReElect the President in 1972, he lined up farm organizations behind Richard Nixon. Madson was rewarded with a $36,338-a-year job in the Agriculture Department.

Our sources slipped us a copy of Butz's Illinois itinerary, which shows that he visited five communities on March 8 and 9. At three stops, he attended purely political functions.

His politicking helped President Ford win the Illinois primary on March 9.

We have also obtained documents from the Rural Development Service, which show that Madson traveled to Illinois on March 3 and 4 for the purpose of "advancing Sec's trip."

Origin of an offensive word

In America today, the word "nigger" is an offensive opprobrious designation often used by ignorant people in an attempt to belittle and besmirch individuals of the black race.

To a black, the word is insulting, to the unthinking it is a degrading castigation. Yet, many years ago when the slave trade flourished, the word was intended as a complimentary appraisal of an exceptional human being.

Old records of American slavery, that insidious traffic in human bondage, indicate that there was a noticeable difference in the physical callibre, the strength and the intelligence of black slaves coming into the country. They were usually rated "excellent," "poor" or "medium grade" depending on their origin.

In the most active slave markets, people from the Niger region in Africa were sought after. They were almost always perfect human specimens. They were handsome, strong and had the keenest mentality. Sharp slave traders labeled these outstanding physical prizes as "Niger" to indicate their origin. To a slave buyer "Niger" was like Tiffany or Sterling. It was an appelation that commanded a higher price and quick sale. Orders were placed in advance for "Nigers."

Slave traders, true to their low morality and the proclivity to misrepresent, soon were classifying all blacks coming to market as "Nigers." It made for quicker sales. Few of the unfortunate slaves could speak or understand English, so there could be no direct affirmation or denial.

The word digressed phonetically in time to the common word we know today — nigger. It retrograded to inferiority and eventually it became an epithet, as racist antagonisms developed. Today, its use is never a compliment, rather a mark of disrespect.

Thus, a word originally intended as a designation of superiority, representing superb physical and mental capacity, deteriorated into a mark of sub-valuation.

The Nigers performed great feats of strength. They were graceful and adaptable. They were gifted agronomists who understood the land and its culture. They were smart administrators who could organize their own work and supervise others successfully. They had a magnificent, positive character, not given to sullenness and lack of ambition that might have motivated an average slave in his distressful predicament.

Our fine black people today might take comfort, satisfaction and pride in the fact that an offensive word, which has no place in American life today, was originally extended to exploit the abilities and physiques of a super race of black people.

Just in jest

We've come a long way since the days when, in order to create fire, we rubbed two sticks together. But unfortunately a man's scientific achievements can also be his ticket to oblivion. — The stick rubber was ousted by the fellow who invented the fire drill, and the fire driller by the flint striker.

Then the flint striker was put out of business when, in 1827, "lucifer" bunch matches tipped with phosphorous and sulphur were invented. But wouldn't you know it, along came the safety match to make the phosphorous tipped bunch matches obsolete. The safety match enjoyed its little hour of prosperity only to run afoul of the more convenient book matches. And now the word is out that disposable lighters are giving book matches a real bad time. — So as I said, it is quite apparent that a man's scientific achievements can be his ticket to oblivion.

And if you still don't believe me, consider what happened to the French chemist, Antoine Lavoisier, in 1794. He was the fellow who discovered that fire is due to the chemical process of oxidation. For his trouble he was condemned to have his head chopped off on the guillotine. — "The French Republic has no use for scientists," the judge pointed out in announcing the sentence.

California's shameful role

By EARL G. WATERS

Assemblyman Mike Cullen has proposed the incorporation of state functions dealing with California Indian problems into the department created solely for the handling of war veteran programs.

The basis and thinking behind this kind of consolidation has not yet been examined nor is it known whether the veterans and the Indians are amenable to such a proposition.

But if it is determined that the Department of Veterans Affairs should be expanded into a broader type agency involved with problems other than those of the veterans, of which there are more than 3½ million in California, there is another group just as deserving of state help as the Indians.

These are the American Japanese whose treatment during WW II has been described as "the blackest blot on American history".

Uprooted from their homes without even the pretext of due process, they were herded into concentration camps and treated as enemies throughout the war. Aside from the personal financial disasters they suffered, the mortification of these citizens cannot be forgotten.

One cannot disclaim state responsibility for those actions with the excuse that it was done by the federal government. It was only done to those in the Pacific Coast states, most of whom were Californians. This, notwithstanding the heaviest concentration of Japanese was in Hawaii, the only section of the nation to suffer an enemy attack.

And it happened in California largely because at the instigation of its Attorney General, Earl Warren, egged on by agricultural interests who saw the Japanese farmers as threats and by others who hoped to gain financially by their removal.

Because of California's shameful role in this trampling on the Constitutional rights of its citizens, the state owes much to them. Whether Cullen's plan to merge Indian Affairs with Veteran Affairs wins approval or not, action should be taken by the Legislature to set things right.

At the moment measures are pending in Congress to give credit for retirement purposes to those in federal employment for the years spent in the internment camps. That is small compensation for the damage done but it is a step in the right direction. The same retirement credit is already given to war veterans for their service. But for their being locked up in concentration camps, many of these Americans, whose only crime was the accident of birth which made them of Japanese descent, might have earned that retirement credit by service in a governmental agency. Many of the right age did anyway, when later they were permitted to serve in the American armed forces. No unit in any branch of service suffered more casualties and won more medals than the famed 442nd Battalion of Japanese Americans in Europe.

But whatever action Congress takes shouldn't excuse the state's inaction. The time is long overdue to face up to its guilt and attempt some feeble reparations. The place to start is by extending benefits in public service to those who suffered. In the overzealous efforts of affirmative action to end discrimination against minorities, the American Japanese have been overlooked entirely.

In the scheme of things today, this oversight has been as much the fault of the American Japanese as anyone else. Returning to their homes at the war's end they set out to pick up where they left off. Uncomplaining, they won their way back through industry and self improvement.

They never demonstrated, demanded or sought special privileges. All they wanted was the privilege to compete in the American way. Their exemplary conduct stands as a lesson to all others of what America is all about. Respect is won by one's conduct, not with laws or through contrived programs.

Can count on a 'lousy cop'

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a police officer. I hope you will print the following open letter which expresses my feelings, as well as those of countless other women who are married to men whose job it is to protect you and millions of others. It would be wonderful to see these sentiments in your column.

Dear Citizen: I am a "lousy cop." You teach your children from infancy that I am a boogieman and then you are shocked when they identify me with my traditional enemy — the criminal. You raise Cain about the moron who cuts you off in traffic, but let me catch you doing the same thing and you say I am picking on you. You accuse me of coddling juvenile delinquents until one of your kids is caught, then I'm badge-happy. You call it part of my job if someone strikes me, but it's police brutality if I strike back. You complain bitterly that something ought to be done about crime on the streets, but YOU don't want to get involved. You have no use for me whatever, but it's all right if I change a tire for your wife, deliver your child in the back seat of a police car, revive your son with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, or work overtime searching for your lost daughter. You stand on your soapbox and call me names, but you don't seem to realize that your property, health, and even your life may depend on me — a "lousy cop." — The Wife Of One

Dear Wife: Here is your letter, and a comment from me. Every police force has its rotten apples, the same as all professions and trades, but the vast majority of police officers are doing a fine job. They are laying their lives on the line every time they put on the uniform and they should be appreciated.

Dear Ann Landers: I plan to marry this fellow in September. We are very much in love and have gone together a long time. The problem is he broke his word.

At Christmas time he promised he would have some teeth put in and he still hasn't done it. On Groundhog Day I gave him an ultimatum — I refused to see him until he got those awful gaps in his mouth fixed.

Last night he phoned again, in tears. He says he doesn't care how he looks to the people he works with, or to anyone but me. I'm the only one in his life that matters. I told him I care how he looks at work and when we go out socially because I love him. Who is right? — Willing To Listen To You

Dear Willing: Since your fiance says you are the only one in his life that matters, he should be willing to get his teeth fixed because it means something to YOU. What's more important, he promised, didn't he?

Most peoplele who go around in need of dental care are afraid of pain. They don't realize that modern dentistry has changed a lot in the past 20 years. Hang tough and insist that he keep his word — for his sake as much as yours. An unhealthy mouth means an unhealthy person.

CONFIDENTIAL to Dear Ann, What's My Problem?: You don't have a problem, Buster, you just haven't recognized one of the facts of life. Fun is like insurance — the older you get the more it costs.

Doctors shake hands tenderly

Why neither politicians nor doctors tend to shake hands with a hard vigorous grip can be explained, I'm told. Politicians do so much of this hand-shaking that they're forced to grip lightly in self-defense. As for doctors in general, it's said they use the soft touch in unconscious imitation of the surgeons who tend to be particularly careful of their hands.

Any Russian woman who bears 10 or more offspring still wins the title of "Mother Heroine" by Soviet government decree.

Was Charles Kettering who said, "My interest is in the future because that's where I'm going to spend the rest of my life."

HOW MANY?

Q. "How many kinds of cancer are there?"
A. Maybe 250.
Q. "How many never-married kings has England had?"
A. Only one. William II, son of William the Conquerer.
Q. "How many teenage marriages end in divorce?"
A. About 54 per cent. If both bride and groom are teenaged.
Q. "How many soldiers do we have standing guard along the Canada-U.S. border?"
A. Not a one.
Q. "How many people did Bonnie and Clyde actually kill?"
A. 13.

SPEECHES

S. J. Michelson, director of a ghost writer's service in New York City, says somebody or other thereabouts makes about 11,000 speeches a year. That's 6,000 speeches more than somebody or other thereabouts made 10 years ago. In another 20 years, somebody or other thereabouts will be making about 20,000 speeches a year, that's the prognostication. This matter ought to be reported to the environment protection boys. Immediately.

What's your total ice cream bill during the months of June through August? The records of one Mr. Cove on Chatham Street in New York City indicate George Washington's ice cream bill during those months in 1790 got up to $200.

Cut the tail when young

DEAR DR. MILLER: It looks as though Little Jake is turning into a Welsh Corgi, or something like that, but he has a long tail. He'd look a lot better without it. If it were cut, would it stunt his growth — J.A.

DEAR J.A.: It shouldn't shorten his vertical stature, but amputation would definitely restrict his horizontal horizons, at least on one end. Not incidentally, the time for tail amputations (when there is one) is when puppies are a very few days old. The more mature they become, the more important that member of their anatomy, the tail, becomes, and the more prolonged and painful the healing process if it should be removed. If you consult Little Jake before the proposed surgery, he'll undoubtedly — and with good reason — veto the whole idea.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Being a pet lover, and being interested in the problem of pregnancy and overpopulation, I was happy to learn about the new first-week pregnancy test. How quick will that test be available? — H.M.

DEAR H.M.: Not quick enough for those who might be wondering right now, but soon, spring or summer, for those who might be wondering then. This early test for pregnancy — one week plus — utilizes a radio receptor assay of chorionic gonadotropin — hormone.

Incidentally, this test is not of value, not yet anyway, for any species but Homo sapiens and equines. Possibly later a similar test might be available for canines and felines, though population control in these species, too, should begin before pregnancy.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Some people around here are using a poison bait which, we understand, has arsenic in it. In case our cat ever got sick and we suspected that's what happened, wouldn't we want to get her to vomit right away? Is salt on the tongue what you use for this? — G.F.

DEAR G.F.: If a cat was already ill from arsenic poison, chances are it would already be vomiting. There's no advantage in encouraging more vomiting in an animal that's already at it. (A quarter of a teaspoon of salt on the back of the tongue often will induce vomiting, however, but that dose should be given before the cat actually becomes ill.) If the animal's already vomiting or has diarrhea, or if it's depressed or weak, it needs expert help at once.

In any case of suspected poisoning, immediate veterinary attention, not a home emetic, is indicated

Sewing injurious to health

They ought to put a sign on sewing machines that reads, "Sewing may be injurious to your health."

I have had it with that machine . . . the headaches, the tension, the way it has alienated me from my family.

As I told my doctor the other day, "You have to give me something for my sewing habit. I can't kick it alone."

"Sit down," he said, "and tell me about the headaches. When do you notice them?"

"Well, usually after I have sewn a crotch to the outer seam."

"I see. And what about the tension?"

"I feel tense when I wear something I have made. Take the one-piece jump suit I made for a party (I wish you would). I felt elegant in that outfit until I noticed one of my friends staring at me. Right away I began to wonder if my tailor tack was hanging out or a bare seam exposed.

"Finally, my best friend came over and said, 'I can't figure out if you're backing into a room or if your head is on wrong.'

" 'What are you talking about?' I asked.

" 'Your darts are over your shoulder blades.'

"I started to perspire.

" 'Don't worry,' she said. 'Luckily your shoulder blades are endowed. Just look over your shoulder all night and act natural.' "

The doctor paused from taking notes and said softly, "You say your sewing machine has alienated you from your children?"

"Definitely," I said. "At first they liked the little blouses and shirts I made for them. Then sewing became an obsession. I began to buy fabric by the bolt. The kids began to complain. Not only did they look like a singing group in their look-alike outfits, they matched the bathroom curtains, the shower curtain, the sofa in the den and the pillows on the porch swing. Once when I got a bargain on a bolt of wide-wale corduroy, I had to shout to my son, 'SMILE! I know you're in this room somewhere!' "

"There now," said the doctor, patting my hand.

"Face it, I'm a sewing junkie," I said hysterically. "I am pale, irritable, my hands shake and I am addicted to fabric sales."

"I can't help you if you don't turn around and look at me," said the doctor, putting his hands on my shoulders.

"I am looking at you," I said miserably. "I rushed to finish this dress this morning before I came in and the darts are facing the back again."

Heart defects from birth

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Our doctor says that my husband has a bifid valve or early calcareous aortic stenosis. He is 63 years old. Sometimes he has a sharp feeling of pain in his heart, then no more trouble. He feels fine except he tires out rather quickly. He is slim, does not have high cholesterol or any other problems. The doctor says there is nothing to worry about. Will you please tell me how dangerous this condition is? Can anything be done to help it?

DEAR READER — At least I can identify from your letter the anatomical area involved. The aortic valve is located at the outlet of the heart to the one great artery (aorta) that provides all of the blood to almost all of the body except the lungs. Ordinarily this valve has three leaflets. They open as the blood is ejected out of the heart and once the squeezing of the heart is over they snap shut, closing the area and preventing blood from rushing back into the heart.

A bifid valve means a birth defect in which there are only two leaflets instead of three. That doesn't necessarily mean that they don't function properly. The other diagnosis refers to development of calcium-like deposits over the aortic valve with obstruction (stenosis) of the valve.

Mild aortic stenosis or obstruction of the bifid valve that doesn't cause enlargement of the heart or excess work of the heart is compatible with a relatively long life.

The amount of difficulty is directly related to the degree of obstruction. The only way that can be told is by special X rays taken of the heart, and in many instances a careful study of the heart through cardiac catheterizations. The pressure is measured inside the heart and outside the heart beyond the obstruction. On the basis of this information and special X-ray studies one can usually tell how much obstruction is present.

If there is a major amount of obstruction, and certainly if it is indeed associated with progressive changes in the heart, open heart surgery could be considered. In this case the diseased valve would be removed and an artifical valve put in its place. This is a serious operation but is is done every day in major heart surgery centers of the nation.

I am not sure how you know your husband has heart pain. Heart pain is not sharp and a better history would need to be known. For information on how to recognize heart pain send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I usually don't mention geographic localities but I see you're close to Stanford University, and I would suggest that you ask your doctor to refer you to the cardiac clinic there for a cardiac evaluation. The nature of the disease, if mild, may not be serious, but if there is a major amount of obstruction I feel that a complete cardiac evaluation would be in order.

Lightner double sets slam

By Oswald & James Jacoby

In the '20s the best auction bridge in the world was played at New York's Knickerbocker Whist Club. Culbertson and Sims were two of the best, but many others contributed tremendous help in getting contract bridge on its feet.

One was Ted Lightner. Ted, who is now 82 or 83, plays rubber bridge at The Regency Whist Club several days a week.

The best known of his many contributions to the game is the Lightner slam double. This double means that when your opponents bid a slam on their own steam you are asking your partner to make an unusual lead, rather than the one you would normally make.

Here is a simple example of this bid which every expert uses today. Without the Lightner double West would open a club. East would take the first trick and South the rest. After the double, West leads a heart and poor South is one trick short of his contract.

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader wants to know what the rule is when, after a hand is dealt, bid, and a few cards have been played, it is discovered that one hand has too many and one too few cards.

The answer is that the hand is a misdeal and is thrown in.

COUNSELING CRAFT — Wilhelmina Smith Massey, and her husband, Ron, plan to use their sailboat, "Misty Win-Song," as part of a sex counseling course. For 18 years Mrs. Massey was a nun and is now married to a former operator of a massage parlor and adult book store.

Former nun now teacher, also counsels on sex

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — For 18 years Wilhelmina Smith Massey was a nun. Now she's a sex counselor married to the former operator of a massage parlor and adult book store.

By day, Mrs. Massey, the former Sister Mary Estelle, teaches sixth graders at a suburban public school. At night, she and husband Ron run One-to-One Counseling Service, which specializes in helping people with sexual and marital problems.

Massey has managed three sex-oriented businesses: a dating service, a massage parlor and an adult book store.

"I went through the dating service," said Mrs. Massey, explaining how they met three years ago. "I had nothing to do with the massage parlor or the book store."

Her husband now operates another dating service.

One-to-One has advertised in the classified section of a local newspaper under "personals." It used such approaches as, "Are you knowledgeable about sex? We don't think so."

But Mrs. Massey, 43, said her counseling is not limited to human sexuality.

"It's not just sex counseling — not really. People who come to us have problems in so many areas."

The Masseys have announced plans for a unique kind of counseling session — a "sailboat cruise encounter."

"Basically it's group counseling, with sun, fun and water thrown in," said Massey.

"Counseling is one of my first loves," said Mrs. Massey, who has taught school for 23 years and has a degree in counseling from Southeast Missouri State College. "Teaching is another love."

The former Roman Catholic nun left the convent in 1969. "I think I just needed a stimulus, friendship and a feeling of independence," she said.

Mrs. Massey said prospective clients are told in advance not to expect any sex in the counseling-encounter sessions.

"There is no misunderstanding about that. It's made clear that no sex is involved when people call in for an appointment. If that's what they are interested in, they ask about it," said Mrs. Massey.

"And when they find out its strictly counseling, then they say they are not interested."

Her counseling service is really "very legitimate, very wholesome," she said. "It's really terribly ordinary. It's family counseling."

Flower festival winners announced

Mrs. Kathryn White of 2530 Magnolia Ave., La Verne, was the first place winner in this year's annual Flower Festival sponsored by the La Verne City Beautiful Committee.

All homes in La Verne were surveyed by teams from the committee and final judgment was made under the direction of the Flower Festival Committee composed of Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mrs. Milan Rupel, Mrs. Harold Burger and Mrs. Alex Mueller.

Purpose of the festival is to encourage citizens to plan for color in their front yards, thus giving interest and enjoyment to neighbors and visitors to the city.

Considered in judging are the number of varieties of annuals, bulbs, shrubs and trees which will provide color at different seasons of the year. While good design is desirable, says the committee, the upkeep and color factors are paramount.

Other prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. L.F. Zielke, 6733 Canterwood Ave., for second place and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Fuentes, 2237 Second St. for third place.

Honorable mentions went to Judge and Mrs. Roland Brownsberger, 2440 Third St. and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rothrock, 1975 Bonita Ave.

Letters of commendation went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haines, 2583 Third St.; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Von Velasco, 2651 Third St.; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lomeli, 2553 Magnolia Ave.; Mrs. Mae Wadsworth, 2701 Hillcrest Dr.; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lowe, 4752 Catalina Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Filer, 4703 Hale Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Ranney, 1184 Ruggles St.; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rydbon, 1196 Ruggles St.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stabis, 1238 Ruggles St.; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Hamilton Jr., 1121 Aldersgate St. and Mr. and Mrs. William Phillipson, 1153 Aldersgate St.

Upland planning special events, spring classes

The Upland Recreation Department will begin spring classes in April in addition to scheduling a number of special events for persons of all ages and interests.

On Sunday, Upland's karate instructor, John Santiago, will attempt to defend his Black Belt championship in the city's third annual Invitational Karate Tournament.

The tournament is scheduled at the Upland High School gymnasium, 565 W. 11th St., starting at 9:30 a.m. Approximately 150 competitors from eight karate schools are expected to participate in the tournament which will climax in midafternoon with the Black Belt competition.

Spectators are welcome to the event which includes competition for men, women, juniors and pee wees. Admission is $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12 if tickets are purchased in advance at the Recreation Department, 404 N. Second Ave., Upland. Tickets will cost an additional 25 cents each at the door.

Brochures are available at the Recreation Office, the Upland City Hall, Public Library and Chamber of Commerce for spring classes which start next week.

Registration for free classes may be made at the first class attended. For those classes having a fee, registrations should be made in advance at the Recreation Office. Registrations are now being taken between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Among the classes offered are arts and crafts, sewing, macrame, quilting, exercise, dance, baton, body conditioning, karate, table tennis, cake decorating, microwave cooking, baby care, and modeling.

Special programs are planned for the spring, also. These include the Latonican Indian Society which will meet at the Magnolia Recreation Center on Tuesdays from 6 to 10 p.m. starting April 13.

The program is for boys from 6 to 12. The youths will learn such crafts as beading, leatherwork and Indian dancing and then use the skills to entertain at nursing homes and schools.

An introductory meeting will be held April 6 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Recreation Department office. Persons wanting additional information about the service club for youths may call 985-0994.

For the first time, the department will offer Lamaze childbirth and baby care classes. Jill Chestnut, a registered nurse, will instruct these classes starting April 13 and 14 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in the "Cellar," 123 E. D St., Upland. A third class will start on April 15 and be held from 10 a.m. to noon in the Recreation Hall. Fee for the six-week course is $25 and pre-registrations are now being taken at the Recreation Department office.

New classes in Hatha Yoga will begin on April 13 and 14. The Tuesday classes will be held at the Recreation Hall, from 8 to 9 p.m. Wednesday's class will be held at Magnolia Recreation Center from 9 to 10 a.m. Mrs. Belle Tuckerman is the instructor. The fee is $8 per month.

Death comes too soon

Dying cop's fight to keep going is over

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A policeman, dying of leukemia, dragged himself to work each day in a painful battle to keep working long enough so that his family could receive his retirement benefits.

His strugggle is over. He lost. So did his family.

Officer John Michael Orlando, once named a "policeman of the year" and a hero, died last Monday night at Kaiser Hospital at age 38. Death came two months and 16 days short of the 10-year service minimum policemen he needed to win limited disability retirement benefits.

As it stands, his widow, Vera, and their four children, Anna Marie 13; Christine 2; Michael 11, and Paul 7, will get a death benefit of $1,000.

Had Orlando lived until June 16 he and his family would have qualified for a monthly pension worth considerably more.

Three months ago, realizing what was at stake, 40 of Orlando's fellow officers at Central Station petitioned the city to permit them to donate one sick day each so that Orlando would be carried on the payroll to June 16. But the City Retirement Board said no, that it was illegal.

Orlando, who had been responding to chemotherapy in a hospital, was well enough to return to work in February. He worked a 4 p.m.-midnight shift, patroling Fisherman's Wharf and getting blood transfusions every day at Kaiser Hospital.

He worked last weekend, entered the hospital Monday and died Monday night.

"Mike was a born policeman, dedicated and devoted," said his grieving widow.

"In this job you get negative," said policeman Robert Barry. "Mickey looked on the good side of things. It was a rare quality."

The dead officer was named Policeman of the Year last November by the Nob Hill Association. Seven years ago he received the department's Bronze Medal of Valor for subduing a man with a gun.

2nd women's bank opens

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The nation's second women's bank opened Wednesday, complete with a playpit in the lobby to be filled with children while mothers do their banking.

By selling shares at $10 each, the Women's Bank raised $1.5 million in capital after being chartered by the state of California.

Approval by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. came last week.

All but two of the 13 directors are women. Of the 1,130 shareholders, 56 per cent are women, 11 per cent are men and 33 per cent listed as couples.

Anita V. Figueredo, a La Jolla surgeon, is chairperson. Victor Diazgrandos, vice president, is one of two men among the 11 employes but said "I am not the token male — or even the token Latin."

The Bank in Mission Valley, in organization since 1974 by a group made up mostly of women, is aimed at single and divorced women but President Rita Mills McCoy said "a full range of services for all people" will be offered.

The First Women's Bank of New York opened its doors last October. In 1919, a bank in Clarksville, Tenn., opened with an all-women staff but merged in 1926 with the First Trust Savings Bank of Clarksville.

Street sign appealing to vandals

LOS ANGELES(AP) — Vandals were stealing the street name signs so often that people had a hard time finding Lovelace Avenue.

Merchants in the business district along the two-block street complained that customers couldn't find their shops.

On Monday, the City Council here voted on a request that Lovelace Avenue be renamed Lykes Avenue. The request, which came in the nature of a four-signature petition, was turned down.

Upland library to close April 9-18

Most of the Upland Public Library will be closed from April 9 to April 18 to allow for the installation of new carpeting.

The Library Board approved of the closing of the library because of the necessity for dismantling book racks for the renovation work.

The multipurpose room will be open for normally scheduled activities, however.

On April 7 at 2 p.m., a Bicentennial slide show, "America the Beautiful," will be presented by Col. Dana S. Alexander. The program includes Niagara Falls at night when sparkling colored lights dance on the waters, a visit to Mt. Ranier in Washington, the blue water of Oregon's Crater Lake, Bryce Canyon National Park in Utah and other scenes.

"Biography of a Library Book" will be presented by Mrs. Sandra Fraire on April 14 at 4 p.m. in the multipurpose room. Mrs. Fraire will use slides to demonstrate the processing of a new library book.

Both programs are open to the public free

Energy nightmare

High food prices? you haven't seen anything yet, says Texan

PECOS, Tex. (AP) — Mike Burkholder gazed across his flat, flaking farmland and said, "We may be finished. We may be going out of business. I guess there's no question about it."

Then, squinting into a dying sun, he added: "This situation may be unique at the moment. But it won't be for long ... sooner or later it will equalize. And if people think food prices are high now, tell 'em to wait a year or two."

What Burkholder, 39, was talking about was a skyrocketing rise in the price of natural gas, which farmers here need to pump from the earth the water that irrigates their crops.

The farmers used to pay 30 to 40 cents for 1,000 cubic feet (mcf) of natural gas. But last Dec. 31 their contracts expired and they say the new rate — $1.85 per mcf — outstripped overnight their ability to raise virtually any crop at a profit.

Asked where that left the farmer, one landowner had a quick reply: "Now who the hell's gonna grow food or fiber at a loss?"

By most estimates, less than 20,000 acres will be in production here this year, down about half from last year. And no one need point out the implications when $250-an-acre farmland is re-evaluated as pasture land on the tax rolls at $25 an acre.

Pecos, county seat of semiarid Reeves County, is likely to survive on the area's other assets: cattle, natural gas and oil.

But that still leaves the farmers who — in an area where rainfall averages only 11 to 12 inches annually — need the underground water to grow their cotton, canteloupes, grain and vegetables.

Bank loans, the life blood of the farm industry, also tend to dry up, much like the land when, uncultivated, its fertility is destroyed by salt deposits.

"We're not in risk banking," one banker said when asked about loans for farms. "If we wanted to gamble we'd go out and buy the farms and take the profits or losses ourselves."

One farmer caught up in the problem is Peppy McKinney, 46, a onetime rodeo calf roper. Standing in a stunted wheat field on his 400-acre farm, McKinney stuck a boot into the powdery dirt and said:

"My primary concern is to try to hold on to my land for the future. My dad and I spent 40 years putting this together and we could lose it in one year. That's the sickening part of this whole thing."

"People have their life and their life's savings invested in this land and they're both going down the drain," said Burkholder." It's a terrible situation."

And some here — Burkholder among them — feel this isolated community of nearly 15,000 has simply been the first hit by what may be a spreading problem.

"... We're just the first of many farming areas going to go out of production because we can't afford to irrigate," Burkholder said. "Irrigation is what gives stability to food production in the United States."

What's ironic to Burkholder, a Reeves County farmer for 17 years, is that his own land contains natural gas.

"My farm lies atop one of the largest gas fields in the country, if not the world. And I do get a small royalty off it. But I have to buy it back at $1.85.

"At the same time, I got some friends in Arizona in the cotton business and they're buying gas about a dollar cheaper than I am. And, by golly, it's my gas!"

As Burkholder's comment indicates, farmers in other states do not pay as much for natural gas and not all natural gas sells at the wellhead to distributors for the almost $2 now being paid by the Delhi Gas Pipeline Corp., which serves farmers here.

But a Delhi spokesman says that, even with some gas coming from old wells at cheaper prices, the company can't make a "reasonable profit" by selling the gas to farmers at $1.85 per mcf.

The reason that gas is more costly for farmers here is that in other places it's sold on the federally regulated interstate market where the price is less than 60 cents per mcf. In Texas, on the unregulated intrastate market, the price is whatever the market will bear.

"Under the current system," grumbled McKinney, "it comes out of our area at $1.85 and goes to New York at 55 cents. If the guy on the East Coast had to pay the same price we do for gas, the money we get for our farm products might increase."

Both the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives have passed legislation that would deregulate some natural gas prices. But the bills are markedly different and observers do not expect any quick agreement that could affect prices — either interstate or intrastate.

Archie Scott, a cotton financier and banker, says the farmers here did not anticipate the rise in price and should have asked for longer contracts under the old, cheaper prices.

"They could have contracted for 50 years, but they thought 10 was enough and that gas might get cheaper. But I don't think gas is going to get any cheaper," Scott said.

"Gas production costs are tremendous," he said. "It cost anywhere from $2 million to $3 million to drill one of the deep wells out here.

"So you can't really blame the company. Delhi bought the system as a business proposition. If the farmers found gas on their land, they wouldn't want to sell it at 30 cents when they could get $2."

The Dehli spokesman said the company is trying to provide a service but added: "... It is not our obligation to provide their gas so they can make a profit.

At the same time, Delhi is vigorously trying to sell its natural gas distribution system.

PLENTY OF GAS, BUT — Mike Burkholder, 39, of Pecos, Tex., a farmer for 17 years, finds himself in an unusual position. Like most farmers in the area he can't afford the price of natural gas to run water pumps to irrigate the land. Unlike most farmers his farm lies atop of one of the largest gas fields in the country, but he still must pay $1.85 per thousand cubic feet to the company which pipes the gas. Behind him is the gas pump for irrigation.

Wrongful death suit dismissed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge has dismissed a wrongful death suit stemming from a 1974 plane crash near Bishop in which 31 film workers and five crew members were killed.

Judge Robert Weil granted a summary judgement Tuesday in favor of Sierra Pacific Airlines which operated the plane which crashed into a mountainside shortly after takeoff from Bishop airport.

The defense contended that the airline could not be liable for the death of Harold West, an observer trainee for the position of captain whose heirs filed the suit, because he was an employe at the time.

The film workers had just completed work on a documentary series for Wolper Productions.

Dispute ends

A continuing boundary dispute between the U.S. and Mexico in 1853 was settled when James Gadsden, minister to Mexico, was authorized by President Pierce to purchase a small piece of territory that now forms the southern part of Arizona and New Mexico.

Maverick

The word "maverick," used to describe independent personalities and stray cattle, comes from the name of Samuel Augustus Maverick, Texas pioneer and politician noted for his "rugged individualism."

Four days in May—for Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Ronald Reagan, the first four days of May loom as crucial ones, with a set of presidential primary elections his managers believe will make or break his campaign for the White House.

First, Reagan plans an effort to define in his own terms the issues of the campaign for the Republican nomination. That process begins with a nationally televised speech by the former California governor.

Reagan's address was taped Tuesday in Hollywood and will be televised at 7:30 tonight by the NBC television network, which is charging $100,000 to carry the 30-minute address.

With that, Reagan's camp hopes to revive the challenge to President Ford, winner in five out of six of the early primaries. Reagan's victory was in the most recent test, a week ago in North Carolina.

The campaign overhaul was in the works before Reagan's upset 52 per cent victory there. John P. Sears, his campaign manager, said the initial goal is to define the issues in Reagan's own terms instead of responding to what has been said about him.

Sears said Reagan was able to do that in fashioning his North Carolina victory, concentrating on questions of foreign policy and defense — and on charges that the administration is letting the United States slip to No. 2 in military might.

Reagan began his race vowing to challenge what he called the "buddy system" in Washington. He apparently wants to go back to that theme.

"This appears to be an antiestablishment year," Sears said in an interview. "There's obviously something that is bothering people. We're making this address in an attempt to get at it. ... We need to define a few things."

The television talk will include a plea for funds, but Sears said he doubts it will bring in much more than the program costs.

Success or failure of the new Reagan push will not get its major test for a month. Reagan is not entered in the April 6 New York primary and has dropped his personal campaign for the Wisconsin primary the same day. Ford will campaign in Wisconsin Friday and Saturday.

"We don't have great expectations," Sears said. "There isn't any plan for Reagan to go there. ..."

Instead, the Reagan strategy aims at three primaries in the South and one in the Midwest, all during the first week of May.

Texas, with 100 GOP delegates, votes May 1. Sears said a victory there is essential. Then, on May 4, there are three more primaries, in Georgia, Alabama and Indiana, with 139 delegates among them.

"Get going there, and we'll have a good shot the rest of the way," Sears said.

By the same token, he acknowledged that defeats in those primaries would effectively eliminate Reagan as a credible candidate.

Reagan himself avoids settling on any state vote as crucial to his campaign, saying only that he intends to be in the race all the way.

In private strategy sessions as in public, Sears said, Reagan has dismissed without discussion the possibility of withdrawing.

"He's been the most adamant about not getting out," Sears said.

He also said money is not a major problem for the Reagan campaign at this point, despite reports to the Federal Election Commission showing his organization nearly $500,000 in debt.

Hamill haircut

Taking country by storm

By The Associated Press

They may not be able to do a Hamill camel, but hundreds of women are getting the Hamill haircut.

It's all due to Dorothy Hamill, the 19-year-old Connecticut resident who won the gold medal for figure skating at the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria.

While the Olympic judges were looking at Dorothy's skating, including complex moves like the Hamill camel, a spin she developed herself, women watching on television were looking at her short, swinging hairstyle.

And beauty salons across the country report they're getting requests for the Hamill look.

"It's amazing. Every third client, if it's at all suitable, wants the look," said a spokesman at Vidal Sassoon in New York. Sassoon — whose salon charges a minimum of $22 for a haircut — is famous for geometric hairstyles similar to the one worn by Dorothy.

Several hairdressers said the basic haircut — generally called "The Wedge" — has been around for some time. But it didn't become a hit until Innsbruck.

Geri Grannell of Head Hunter Hair Fashions in Portland, Maine, said stylists at the saloon have been doing the haircut "for a long time, but it never caught on until Dorothy Hamill won a gold medal."

She said about 15 women a week have been coming to the shop, usually with a picture, asking for the haircut. Most of the customers for the $8.50 cut are young, Miss Grannell said.

Cathy Cooper, the manager of one of six House of Sherman salons in Salt Lake City, said "just about everybody" is asking for the Hamill haircut.

"We were pushing it before the Olympics because it's really a fun haircut," she said. "But the women had never seen one before Dorothy."

Don Walter of Hair Works in Portland, Ore., said the requests started coming in after Dorothy's gold medal performance.

"We call it the graduated bob. It's a precision haircut. An inch in back can make a world of difference," he said.

Rolf Brauchli, owner of the salon de Paris Coiffure shop in Chicago, estimates that his outlet has done about 30 Hamill haircuts since the Olympics.

"Mostly the younger group wants it," he said. "The ones who blow their hair and don't want much fuss."

A hairdresser at Hair Pair in the Washington suburb of Vienna, Va., said the boom in Hamill haircuts came "two or three weeks ago — mostly during and immediately after the Olympics."

And what about Dorothy herself? Her sister, Marcia, 21, said the skating star has almost always worn her hair short but wasn't satisfied with the cut until about a year ago when she went to a New York City hairdresser called Suga. Marcia said Suga has cut Dorothy's hair since then, except when Dorothy is training in Colorado Springs, Colo., where she gets her hair cut at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Singles set activities next week

Pomona Valley Jewish Singles will meet at 7:30 p.m., April 7, at Mutual Savings and Loan Building, 160 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland.

Following a brief business meeting, members will attend the Singles dance at Griswold's Pavilion.

Joyce Brothers

Irresponsible behavior

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: MY girlfriend is a senior in high school, just as I am. I'm terribly attracted to her sexually and she leads me on so I almost go crazy. I can't understand why she does this. It probably sounds old-fashioned, but I do respect her right not to go to bed with me. Actually, I'm a virgin and so is she. At least, I think she is because she's been very protected by her super-religious family.

I just can't see why she doesn't let our friendship be more friendly and less sensational. I mean, why the big sex play all the time? I'd settle for a little less at this point because I don't know how to handle a girl yet and I don't want to goof it. Is there something wrong with me! — P. F.

Dear P. F.: Definitely not. Your reactions are quite normal. I think it might be a good idea to ask your girlfriend what you've asked me. It might make her aware that it isn't fair to behave as she does unless she expects and is prepared for the consequences.

I think her behavior indicates that she's not assuming her share of the responsibility but is putting all the burden on you. She may not realize this and you might be doing her a big favor by pointing it out.

Often, individuals who tease are attracted to others but don't know how to handle the feeling. They want to arouse others, and themselves, too, because it gives them pleasure. As soon as it threatens to become serious, they get frightened and pull away. Then the one who has been teased feels betrayed and cheated.

When this happens with adults, the teased person is often an object of hostility, although the teaser may not know this and may act in an unconscious way. To be teased is like being offered a preseent and then, just as it's within reach, it's taken away.

I have the feeling that your girlfriend probably is totally unaware that she is causing you pain and discomfort. Sometimes young girls behave this way because they think they're supposed to, especially if they are inexperienced and have been brought up in a protected environment.

Often, when parents constantly hug and kiss their child but withdraw or become angry if she responds, the child grows up feeling that the tension this produces is a normal part of all relationships.

This is why it would be valuable to discuss your problem with your girlfriend and try to explore her feelings. At first, she may be hurt or angry but, in the long run, this can only improve the quality of your friendship. She will probably respect your honesty and may be relieved not to have to play a role she doesn't feel ready for.

If you feel you can't discuss this in person without embarrassment, do it on the phone. This safe distance will allow her to react with privacy and it will give her time for reflection before she sees you again. If you dislike the phone, try writing a letter making sure, however, that you write in such a way that you won't be mortified if someone else reads it. However you do it, if you want to keep your friendship, I suggest you take the leap and bring this problem into the open.

Swedish king fancies self as ordinary man

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — King Carl XVI Gustaf, who starts a 27-day tour of the United States this week, once said that if he hadn't been born of royal blood he would have liked "an earthy job perhaps as a farmer."

The 29-year-old Swedish monarch, who has said he likes to think of himself as an ordinary young man, followed that pattern early in March when he became engaged to a West German commoner, Silvia Sommerlath, a former secretary he met at the 1972 Olympics.

Of their first meeting, the king said: "It said click — and it has been clicking ever since."

He made the remark at a news conference here following the engagement announcement and now "It said click, said the king," is a saying that is sweeping Sweden.

Carl Gustaf arrives in the United States Friday to make a tour partly as a public relations man for his country — "To sell Sweden," he has said.

His schedule calls for visits to New York City, Williamsburg, Va.; Washington, Philadelphia, the Midwest (to meet Swedish Americans), Detroit (to visit automobile factories), Houston(to see the space center) the West Coast and Colorado (to do some skiing).

Carl Gustaf is well aware of his role as a royal public-relations man for Sweden and also realizes that there will always be a certain distance between him and the people. But at the same time he insists on having a private life of his own.

"I do my duty — during my free time, however, I too am but a person just like everyone else," he said in an interview recently.

Carl Gustaf's choice of a commoner as Sweden's future queen came as no surprise to the Swedes. As a young crown prince he had declared that he wanted freedom to marry the girl he loved.

"She may be a secretary of a government official. That does not matter. The important thing is love," he said

When he finally presented his fiancee to the Swedes he proved he had lived up to his philosophy. Silvia, two years older than the king, is the daughter of a West German businessman and used to work as secretary before becoming an Olympic hostess.

Asked what Silvia had that all his other girls had not, he said simply, "She is Silvia you can see for yourselves."

Carl Gustaf is of the Bernadotte dynasty which has reigned in Sweden since 1810 when Napoleon Bonaparte's marshal, Jean-Baptiste Bernadotte, was offered the Swedish throne and became Carl XIV Johan.

Carl Gustaf was born April 30, 1946, in the royal palace of Haga outside Stockholm as the only son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf and Sibylla, German-born princess of the Sachsen Coburg. Carl Gustaf never got a chance to get to know his father. When he was a year old, his father was killed in an air crash in Copenhagen, Denmark. Among the victims was American singer Grace Moore.

"Maybe I would have developed differently if he had been alive when I grew up," Carl Gustaf once said.

His mother and his grandfather supervised his education.

He was systematically trained for his future role as head of state. After secondary school he did his military service as a commoner with the marines.

The chiefs of the military units where he served praised him for his willingness to work.

"He never hesitated to get his hands dirty with hard work," one commander said.

During his training he also sailed around the world.

"On the high seas I had to scrub the decks and wash the dishes but when we came to anchor at a harbor, I had to represent Sweden and the royal family — a social seesaw which sometimes made me more seasick than the most severe storms," the king recalled in an interview.

Carl Gustaf ascended to the throne in September 1973 when his grandfather Gustaf VI Adolf died at the age of 92.

It was not easy to succeed the old king who was immensely popular with the people. But despite his youth and relatively short period of training Carl Gustaf was soon fully accepted. About 100 letters a day and hand-made gifts began pouring into his royal palace.

The king and Silvia will need a male heir to make sure Sweden will remain a monarchy. Sweden has no female succession rights to the throne like neighboring Denmark or Britain.

The government may have to enter a formal proposal for female succession rights should Carl Gustaf and Silvia fail to solve the problem "the natural way," as most Swedes hope they will.

The king is scheduled to spend four days in Williamsburg and Washington, with the Swedish ambassador, Count Wachtmeister as his host, and is expected to meet with President Ford on April 6.

Most of the U.S. tour is private, on invitation from Swedish - American organizations which asked the king to pay them a visit in connection with the U.S. Bicentennial.

The monarch will be accompanied by his first marshal, his chancellory and information chief, his aide-de-camp and another aide.

In Williamsburg and Washington, Carl Guftaf will study U.S. environmental policy and acquaint himself with American suburban life. In Philadelphia the city is planning a "Salute to Sweden" program in connection with the royal visit. From there he goes to Wilmington, Del., where Swedes founded the "New Sweden" colony in 1638.

On April 8 he will go to Minnesota, the state with the most Swedish immigrants.

The king then will visit Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Lindsborg, Kan., which is also called "Little Sweden;" Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Jamestown, N.Y., Boston and New York City to be officially received by Mayor Abraham D. Beame.

North Korea's debts to West mounting

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea has fallen $60 million behind in payments for Japanese imports, but businessmen here say there is little that can be done to collect from a sovereign nation without the funds to pay.

A senior manager of a major Tokyo bank to which North Korea owes millions of dollars said the North Korean international debt problem took a turn for the worse recently when it requested a two-year moratorium on paying roughly the equivalent of $280 million to Japanese banks and trading companies.

"We can collect from the (Japanese) government's export insurance program," said the banker, who asked to remain anonymous. "But then North Korea would be immediately blacklisted — ineligible for further coverage — and they would feel it was practically a declaration of war."

North Korea's troubles can be traced to 1973, when it went on a spree in the West, ordering expensive plant equipment to boost production in time for the 30th anniversary of its Communist party in 1975.

These were North Korea's first purchases outside the Communist bloc and the experience proved economic disaster for President Kim Il-sung's government in Pyongyang, the capital.

Unfamiliar with fluctuating capitalist markets, the North Koreans had intended to pay for the imported machinery with mineral exports to the West. Their calculations went awry when recession struck West Europe and Japan, forcing down the prices and demand for their exports, mainly zinc and cooper ore.

Payments to West German, Swedish and Japanese banks began running late near the end of 1974, and it's been downhill for Pyongyang ever since.

One Japanese source said North Korean debts in West Europe are estimated at $400 million to $1 billion.

North Korea, with one of the most secretive societies in the world, refuses to supply its Western creditors with basic economic data so they can determine the North Koreans' ability to repay.

Sweden agreed last month to a two-year moratorium on the $45.7 million North Korea owes to Volvo and other Swedish companies. But at least one major Japanese bank has refused to follow suit.

An officer of the bank, who asked that its name be withheld because of possible repercussions from North Korea, said it had cabled North Korea's central bank that it would not go along with the postponement and cited lack of information on the North Korean economy as part of the reason.

North Korean payments still occasionally trickle in to selected Japanese firms, "so they must have some foreign currency reserves on hand," he said. "But until they let us know just how much, no one can expect us to accept their new set of terms, announced to us indirectly and without consultation."

Japan has been North Korea's biggest non-Communist trading partner, but the two countries have no diplomatic relations, making the payments problem a highly sensitive one in Tokyo.

Japanese government officials are urging restraint in pursuing the problem with North Korea amid efforts to keep what relations there are unruffled, sources said. A Foreign Ministry spokesman denied such "ministerial guidance."

The firms have no one to turn to but the private Japan-North Korea Trade Association, set up by Japanese trading companies, which sent an unsuccessful mission to Pyongyang last year trying to speed up payments.

Representatives of Italy, France, West Germany, Japan and Sweden met in Paris last fall to discuss the North Korean payment problem but no decision on how to deal with it was made, informed sources said.

North Korea's arrears surprised many Western banks which have had good experiences in the past making loans to Communist countries in East Europe.

"The East Europeans get very favorable terms from U.S. and West European banks and without disclosing their foreign exchange holdings, amount of gold on hand and balance of payments," said a Western banker in Tokyo.

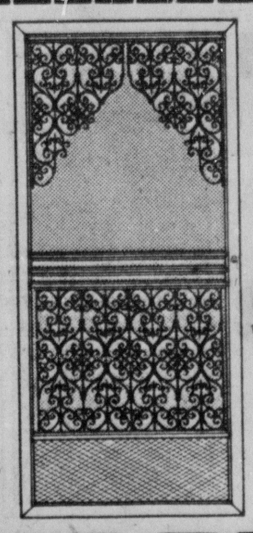

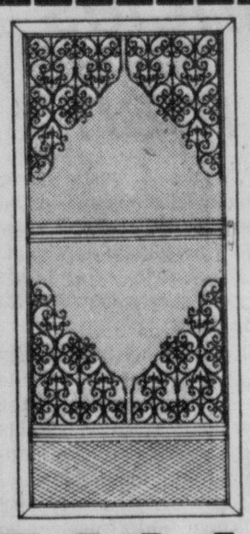

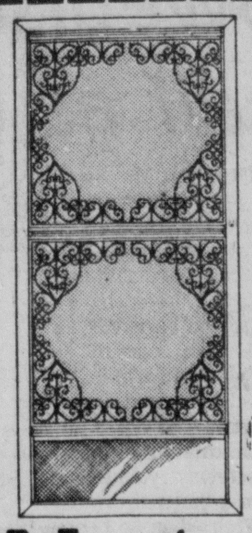

"The East European countries have repaid promptly and all banks are anxious to do business with them," he said. But he added that mentioning North Korea recently at a dinner with a Japanese banker upset the men and nearly ruined his appetite.

The North Korean payments problem is so touchy in Tokyo that most bankers, trading company executives and government officials contacted on the subject refused comment.

One businessman declined to say how late North Korea has been in paying his firm, but he said, "Despite the problem, we continue to import North Korean goods — and we pay them on time."

Yanks, Andy present cases

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees claim pitcher Andy Messersmith no longer is a free agent. Messersmith says he is. And both sides in baseball's latest dispute were to appear before Commissioner Bowie Kuhn today to present their cases.

For almost two weeks, the national pastime was played on the diamonds of spring training camps from Florida to California. Now the spotlight shifts back indoors, where Kuhn will attempt to resolve whether the Yankees have a valid claim to the 30-year-old pitcher, who was declared a free agent last December in an arbitrator's ruling that rocked baseball back on its spiked heels.

Kuhn sent a teletype message to all major league clubs Wednesday informing them that the Yankees "have presented evidence to this office" that Messersmith may be under contract to them.

The Yankees claim Messersmith's agent, Herb Osmond, entered into a four-year agreement—for an estimated $1.5 million—on behalf of the former Los Angeles Dodger pitcher. But Messersmith said he would not sign because the agreement entered into by Osmond had been altered significantly when the club drew up a formal contract.

"I will not sign with them," Messersmith said. "I was really getting pumped up. I was all set to go. I was packed, had my shoes dyed and was damn near out the door. Then Herb called and said, 'Don't go.'"

Entering the picture on Messersmith's behalf was Dick Moss, attorney for the Major League Players Association. Moss charged the Yankees' claim was "totally without merit and it will be appropriately challenged."

Kuhn must seek the answers to three obvious questions:

—Did Osmond have the right to sign an agreement for Messersmith?

—If he did, was such an agreement valid without Messersmith's signature?

—Did the terms in the original agreement differ substantially from the formal contract?

On the first question, Messersmith told The New York Times that Osmond "has no right to sign anything for me. He has no power of attorney." If that's true, the Yankees' only apparent recourse would be to sue Osmond.

The final point should be easy to answer when the agreement signed by Osmond is compared with the contract Messersmith has rejected.

Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees, accused Messersmith of "attempting to void the terms of the agreement," and there were rumors, denied by the pitcher, that he had received a more lucrative offer, reportedly from the Texas Rangers.

Bobby Knight new college king

Bobby Knight, the new king of college basketball, will never remind anyone of John Wooden, the retired master.

While Wooden had a grandfatherly image, Knight is truly a General Patton the way he guided Indiana's undefeated basketball team to a national championship this week.

It's much too early to rate Knight in the same class with Wooden as one of the great coaches of all time but the fiery Hoosier mentor has already achieved a lot at the tender age of 35.

Coaching was the difference in the 1976 finals at Philadelphia.

Indiana didn't have the best talent in the tournament but the discipline taught by Knight paid off with a national title.

There wasn't much question that UCLA had the best talent for a complete 14-man roster but the Bruins couldn't compete with Indiana on an equal basis.

It would have been interesting to have seen a title showdown between Wooden, the old master, and Knight, the hard-driving youngster. It should have happened last year in San Diego but unbeaten Indiana was knocked off in the Mideast Regionals by Kentucky when Scott May was subpar because of a broken arm.

With Wooden now a sideline spectator, UCLA just isn't the same any more. Gene Bartow may be a good coach but he certainly isn't any Wooden but who is unless Knight proves to be in the next decade.

It used to be teams around the nation would fall apart just thinking about playing UCLA but those days are gone forever.

Mystique is gone

Gavin Smith, UCLA's hot-shooting sub forward, said it best in Philadelphia when he was quoted as saying, "A lot of the mystique left when Wooden left UCLA. You can tell it in the way everybody plays us. You can no longer see the fear in their eyes."

Indiana wanted the national title more than UCLA. The Hoosiers always play hard and the perfect season was the result of four years of effort.

"These kids have worked hard for this and no one knows this better than I do," Knight said about the dramatic victory which sent the Hoosier state into a frenzy.

Knight is an interesting personaltiy. He tells it like it is and doesn't hold back. During an hour-long discussion with the press on Sunday between the semifinals and finals, he discussed his philosophy at great length.

"Basketball is not a game against an opponent," he explained. "It doesn't make any difference who you play, how good they are, how big they are or anything else. It's a game against your own potential. I think that's the whole essence of athletics."

As far as winning is concerned, the youthful Knight continued, "Three things are important.

1) Strength. Wiry strength. To hold onto the ball, to maintain a position on the boards, to maintain a defensive stance. 2) Quickness. The slow, plodding team will have trouble over the long season. 3) Concentration. You have to play in a way that utilizes the abilities of the team."

Knight, the only man to both play on (Ohio State in 1960) and coach a national championship team, is always seeking the help of fellow coaches and basketball names.

For instance, Boston Celtics' star John Havlicek, an Ohio State teammate in 1960, was on hand in Philly to help get the Hoosiers mentally prepared for the championship game.

Newell close friend

Pete Newell, the Lakers' general manager, is another basketball man Knight likes to consult.

"Basketball is a team game," Knight said. "More than anybody else, Newell summed it up for me. He said basketball is a game where you've got to get better shots than the other team . . . and more of them. That works at both ends of the floor."

Because of his friendship with Newell and his success in the collegiate world, Knight has been mentioned as a possible replacement for Bill Sharman if and when the Lakers fire him.

But Knight indicated he isn't interested in moving to the pros.

"If they establish a pro team at Fort Knox, and if my salary is what I can carry out of the vault, I'm not going," he said.

Coaching the pros wouldn't be the same. At Indiana, Knight can recruit the type of players he wants and can dominate them. He couldn't do the same in the National Basketball Association.

"I tell them before we recruit players what my rules are going to be and I don't give a damn if they

DOIN' THE FLAP

Lakers center Kareem Abdul Jabbar seems to be doing an impromptu dance after running into Seattle's Talvin Skinner Wednesday night. Sonics embarrassed the Lakers, 120-109.

Lakers' playoff hopes dim

SEATTLE (AP) — Veteran guard Herm Gilliam decided he was going to lead the Seattle SuperSonics against the Los Angeles Lakers.

"I was trying to pick somebody else up," Gilliam said after he pumped in 22 points Wednesday night to help the Sonics defeat Los Angeles, 120-109, in their battle for a National Basketball Association playoff berth.

The victory moved Seattle into second place in the Pacific Division race, a half game ahead of Phoenix.

Any combination of victories by Seattle or Phoenix and losses by Los Angeles totaling four will eliminate the Lakers.

"It looks pretty slim right now, but we're still not out of it," maintained Laker Coach Bill Sharman. "If we can win . . . We've got to bear down and win the next four."

Seattle, which has beaten Los Angeles three times in a row after losing the first two, will face the fourth place Lakers on the road in the Forum Friday night.

"I just worry about Friday's game," Seattle Coach Bill Russell said. "This is playoff time because every game is essential. My guys worked hard tonight.

"Herm had one of the better games he's had this year. Fred Brown gave me an outstanding game."

With Slick Watts in foul trouble, Brown played 40 minutes, also scoring 22 points while Tommy Burleson added 20 for Seattle. Cazzie Russell with 32 and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar with 30 paced the Lakers.
and the guard play.

"Their penetration really hurt us that first half," Sharman said. "We just didn't shoot very good. They were just shooting very well."

Seattle hit 53 per cent from the field while the Lakers slipped to 41 per cent.

"We have to have four or five guys hitting to make up for defense and rebounding," Sharman said. "We got it down to nine or 10 points but couldn't do it . . . juwt when we got within striking range."

"Gilliam really hurt us. He hurt us scoring and did some good things."

Gilliam began the season with the Atlanta Hawks but was delt to Seattle early. "I know my teammates better now," he said.

"The guys think positive," Gilliam continued. "All the guys get along fine. This team doesn't think about average. Most guys don't know what their average is."

The victory was Seattle's third straight and 12th in a row at home, where the Sonics have played before sellout crowds the past nine games.

Los Angeles dropped its third straight overall and its fourth consecutive game on the road.

Ryan displays his top velocity

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Today is exactly 10 months after Nolan Ryan pitched the fourth no-hitter of his baseball career, beating Baltimore 1-0 on nine strikeouts.

Today is exactly one day after the fireballing right-hander of the California Angels eliminated any doubt he has fully recovered from elbow surgery, even though it was only an exhibition game.

Ryan, pitching flawlessly for five innings Wednesday, struck out 10 San Diego Padres and the Angels posted a 3-1 victory in an exhibition baseball game.

"I didn't think he'd get so many strikeouts," said Manager Dick Williams. "It looks to me like he hasn't lost any of his velocity."

"That's as good as I threw all last year, inciuding the no-hitter," said Ryan. "I can't throw any better for this time of the year than I threw today."

Ryan threw only 72 pitches and 51 of them were for strikes. He faced only one batter over the minimum in his second appearance of the spring. Willie McCovey was the only man to solve Ryan's fastball, powering his second homer of the spring as he led off the second inning.

"But that's nothing new," said Ryan of McCovey's homer. "He gets me every spring."

Ryan, who had four bone chips removed from his elbow last Sept. 23, pitched like a machine Wednesday. He struck out the side in the first inning, got two more in both the second and third innings and struck out the side again in the fifth. Sid Monge and Dick Drago followed Ryan to the mound and the trio held the Padres to three hits.

The Angels, now 5-2 in the spring, tied the game 1-1 in the second on singles by Mike Miley, Jerry Remy and Rusty Torres. A single by Miley, an infield out and Torres' single sent them ahead in the fourth.

California's scoring ended in the eighth on a walk to Ed Herrmann and singles by Bob Allietta and Billy Smith.

The Angels slammed 10 hits against Alan Foster and Jerry Johnson. Bruce Bochte had a double and single.

Dionne scores 38th goal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Don Kozak's breakaway goal at 7:49 of the second period snapped a 1-1 tie and lifted the Los Angeles Kings to a 2-1 victory Wednesday night over the St. Louis Blues, giving the Kings a three-game National Hockey League win streak.

Kozak blocked a shot by St. Louis defenseman Bob Plager at the Blues' blue line, raced the length of the ice and shot high over goalie Ed Staniowski's left shoulder.

The Kings leaped to the lead when Marcel Dionne collected his 38th goal of the season, setting a new Los Angeles record, at 4:04 of the first period.

Dionne, who had 47 goals at Detroit last season, surpassed linemate Mike Corrigan's club record of 37 set in 1972-73.

Red Berenson scored on a Blues' power play at 9:51 to even the count at 1-1.

Los Angeles' Rogie Vachon was clearly the difference especially early in the game. Vachon, who allowed six goals at Kansas City Tuesday, turned back 12 of 13 scoring opportunities in the first period and was beaten on only one of 30 St. Louis shots.

St. Louis rookie goalie Staniowski made 32 saves as the Blues three-game winning streak was snapped by the Kings.

Dionne was set up alone in front of Staniowski on a neat passing play. He took a centering pass from Corrigan and fired past Staniowski's outstretched glove hand. Mike Murphy started the scoring thrust with a pass to Corrigan.

The Kings won the season's series from the Blues with two wins and a tie in four games. They split the two games in St. Louis.

With Pittsburgh losing to Montreal, 7-3, the Kings moved three points ahead of the third-place Penguins in the Norris Division standings.

The Blues scored while Los Angles defenseman Dave Hutchison was serving a double-minor penalty for tripping and unsportsmanlike conduct.

Berenson stepped around King defenseman Sheldon Kannegiesser on right wing, worked to his forehand pulling Vachon out of his goal, and deposited the puck into an untended net.

St. Louis had seven shots on goal during that man-advantage situation, as Vachon stopped Garry Unger four times on good scoring opportunities. Berenson hit the post with a backhander moments before he clicked for his seventh career 20-goal season.

The Kings outshot St. Louis 16-7 in the third period and held a 34-31 edge in the game.

Ganesha, Poly stars top athletes

Eddings likes different events

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Ganesha High's Floyd Eddings and Cal Poly Pomona's Ron Stewart were honored as Athletes of the Week at the Progress Bulletin's weekly track and field luncheon Wednesday at the Castaway Restaurant.

Eddings received a plaque from the Pomona Elks Lodge for his outstanding performance in a dual meet against Pomona last week. He won four events — the 100-yard dash (9.6 seconds), the 220 (22.0), the long jump (22 feet, 7 inches) and the pole vault (10 feet). His times in the 100 and the 220 are the best prep marks in the valley this season.

A junior at Ganesha this year, Eddings moved to Pomona from Birmingham, Ala. during the summer. He competed in the decathlon there and placed second in the state in the 120 high hurdles with a time of 14.2. Because of knee problems, he has competed in that event only once this year.

"The competition here is tougher than it was where I came from," said Eddings. "I guess my favorite events are the 100 and the 220 but I like to do lots of different things."

Stewart went to Mexico with Poly's team last week, and within the period of one hour, ran a school record 400-meter race in 48.0 seconds, ran the same distance in 49.5 in a leg of the sprint medley relay and again in 48.7 in a leg of the 1600-meter relay.

Quoting the coaches:

JIM GEORGE, Poly: "We really had a good time in Mexico. They treated us great down there. I didn't know what was going on until we got there but it turned out we competed in the 10th annual Mexico Relays. All the Mexican colleges go to that meet to try to qualify people for the Olympics. Their facilities are unreal.

"We had some great performances. We finally found a sprinter — Mike Friarson went 10.6 in the 100 meters. We set school records in the 400-meter relay and the 1600-meter relay. Our 41.4 in the 400 relay was really a great time for us. Stewart broke the school record in the 400 and Mark Kegans tied the school record in the pole vault at 16 feet.

"We'll go against Irvine this week in a tri-meet with Cal State Bakersfield at Irvine. Irvine's really loaded."

PAT MULCAHY, Pomona-Pitzer: "We'll go against Occidental Saturday at Claremont-Mudd. I figure we'll get about 60 points and lose about 85-60 to Oxy. It depends on whether they bring their whole team. We had some fantastic performances last week at the Santa Barbara Relays. We took 12 people and they all either placed or had a lifetime best. Kent Namikas, a freshman, went 49-4 in the triple jump and Steve Smith ran the highs in 14.0. Our meet against Oxy should be one of the better small college meets in Southern California this year. We'd beat them if we had three more people — a sprinter, a half-miler and a pole vaulter. But we don't."

GAYLE HOPKINS, Claremont-Mudd: "We're 3-1 in dual meet competition, so the meet at our place this week will involve three teams with a total of one loss. We beat La Verne last week. They did very well considering the size of their team and that they don't have a track. We won 14 events, and six of them were by freshmen and four by sophomores. When those people are seniors, maybe we'll be able to compete with Pomona-Pitzer and Occidental."

VINCE O'BOYLE, Citrus: "We meet Southwestern Friday and the next day we'll be at the Bakersfield Relays. We won't run everybody Friday because we'll have it tough in Bakersfield. We had 16 personal bests last week against Chaffey. Harold Carter won the 100 in a wind-aided 9.5. Calvin Dupleasis set a meet record in the 440 with a 49.0. Hura Hill set a school record in the triple jump at 48-8, the third best in Southern California this year. Our 440 relay team ran 42.0, second best in Southern California. We're anxious for the Bakersfield Relays because we want to see how we do against some tough competition."

JOHN NORTON, MSAC: "We had a good meet at Orange Coast. Steve Miller went 7 feet in the high jump, and seven people cleared 6-6 on the first jump. Unfortunately pole vaulter Tony Edwards was injured and is still in the hospital. We have to win two meets for the conference championship. We have San Diego Mesa this week and next week we'll go against Santa Ana at Mesa Community College in Arizona, the national JC champion. We had to decide between that meet and the Bakersfield Relays, so we won't be going to Bakersfield."

DOUG WESTLAKE, Ganesha: "We were very fortunate to get Floyd from Alabama, and we're fortunate that he's only a junior. Between he and Lloyd Jones we're expecting a strong CIF showing. I think Floyd could do just about any event. We'll try him in a couple more things before the season's over. He's a fine young man and very easy to coach."

Westlake was himself a track and basketball star at Pomona High before playing both sports at the University of Washington. While Pomona was in the Montview League, he won the league title in the 100 in 9.9 and did 49.2 in the 440 and 23-2 in the long jump.

Long Beach hero attention grabber

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Freestyle world record holders Jim Montgomery and Tim Shaw, hoping to use the Belmont Plaza pool as a springboard toward a berth on the U.S. Olympic team, splash here this evening in the Amateur Athletic Union's indoor swim championships.

Shaw, however, commands most of the attention.

The 19-year-old freshman at nearby Long Beach State won the AAU's Sullivan Award as the nation's top athlete in 1975.

Shaw, whose time of 3:53.31 in the 400-meter freestyle is still the world record, is heavily favored in that event this evening, and he's entered in four other events, too.

Montgomery, like Shaw a double winner at the recent NCAA championships in Providence, R.I., will be favored in his best event, the 100-meter freestyle, in which he holds the world mark of 50.59.

In the recent collegiate championships, Shaw set American marks in the 500-yard and 1,650-yard freestyle events, taking John Naber's name out of the record books twice.

But Naber is in this meet, and favored in tonight's second event.

Tonight's schedule starts with the 200-meter backstroke, in which Naber swam 57.05 last year, not far off Roland Mathes' 56.30 world mark. Also on the card are the 100-meter breaststroke, 400-meter freestyle and 100-meter butterfly.

This evening's finals are to start at 7 p.m. PST.

This AAU championship meet is normally a short-course meet. But because it's an Olympic year, all events will be contested in meters, over the long course of 50 meters rather than the usual indoor 25-meter setup.

Shaw has entered in the 200-meter backstroke, 400 freestyle, 200 freestyle, 100 backstroke and the 1,500 freestyle. His world marks in the 800 and 1,500 freestyle events were recently surpassed by Australia's Steve Holland.

Naber, who led the University of Southern California to the NCAA championship, will have Hungarian Voltan Verrazto as his top challenger in the backstroke.

Melissa Belote of Virginia, an ex-Olympian, faces a foreign challenge in the breaststroke from Canadian Nancy Garapick.

Shirley Babashoff, the outstanding U.S. female freestyle swimmer, rates as the favorite in her events and holds the world record in the 400 — 4:14.76. Camille Wright of Louisville has the fastest American time in the 100 butterfly, a time of 1:02.71.

This same Belmont Plaza pool will also host the Olympic swimming trials, starting June 16.

Scots, Braves win in girls' playoffs

Upland High and Alta Loma won while Ganesha and Bonita lost Wednesday in the first round of CIF girls basketball playoffs.

The Highlanders dumped Bassett, 42-28, Alta Loma trimmed Yucaipa, 46-32, Ganesha fell to Quartz Hill, 82-40, and Bonita was edged by Elsinore, 39-35.

Upland (16-3), the San Antonio League champion, led by just one point, 21-20, after three quarters, but exploded for 21 in the final period. The halftime score was 10-10.

High scorers for Upland were Carol Moser (15) and Nan Fowler (10). Bassett's Sandy Sarrano had 10. The Scots will meet Covina, a 55-51 overtime winner over Burroughs of Ridgecrest Wednesday, in the second round Friday. The site will be determined by a coin-flip.

Alta Loma (10-5) built a 22-10 halftime lead on the way to its 14-point victory. The Hacienda League co-champs were led by forward Jill Taylor (23 points) and guard Rose Corona (11). Taylor scored the Braves first 14 points. Yucaipa's Lori Beaver and Char Geary totaled eight apiece.

Ganesha finished its season with a fine 6-4 record. The Giants were led Wednesday by Vera James and Carla Taylor with 10 points each.

Bonita (13-4) led 14-2 in the first quarter, but fell behind, 22-18, at the half. The Bearcats tied the score once in the final period before Elsinore went on to win. Nancy Matza (16 points) and Terry Burton (eight points and 13 rebounds) paced Bonita.

Evonne Goolagong beats Claremonter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Evonne Goolagong and Chris Evert have advanced to the quarter-finals of a $75,000 Philadelphia women's tennis tournament.

Miss Goolagong set a Philadelphia tournament record Wednesday night in her 6-0, 6-3 defeat of Janice Metcalf of Claremont and Miss Evert posted a 6-1, 6-3 victory from Mona Guerrant.

Miss Goolagong has won 12 matches without losing a set. That broke the old mark of 11, set by Miss Evert in 1974.

"I have been playing consistently well," Miss Goolagong said. "I wonder when I'm going to have a letdown. I've been pushing myself."

The Australian won the first nine games but ran into a bit of trouble midway through the second set. She lost her service in the eighth game but came back to break Miss Metcalf's service and win the match with two successive placement strokes.

Miss Goolagong now faces Rosie Casals, who has lost three times to the Australian this season.

Miss Evert won over Miss Guerrant, who surprised Olga Morozova in the first round at Boston.

Defending champion Virgina Wade of Great Britain rallied to beat Betty Stove of Holland 7-6, 6-3.

Palmer has guts, humor

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Sandra Palmer says she had guts and a sense of humor when she decided to leave her native Texas and take up golf for a living.

But she didn't have much in the way of golfing skill.

"I can't tell you why I wanted to play pro golf," she says. "I wasn't any good."

However, a couple of other things she had — determination and perserverance — took care of the golf.

A former Homecoming queen and cheerleader at West Texas State, Miss Palmer has probably worked harder than any other woman on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour to perfect her game.

Miss Palmer, who today began defense of her title in her $200,000 Dinah Shore Winners Circle tournament at Mission Hills Country Club, goes about practicing with a strictly business approach.

The Winners Circle tournament is sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive company.

She rarely plays practice rounds with anyone, preferring to give complete concentration to her game. She imagines situations to help her bear down, such as pretending she's challenging for the lead with three holes to go.

"I have to think what might happen," she says.

Her sense of humor, used in the past to help her forget bad rounds and lean years, is employed in a different way these days — she laughs all the way to the bank.

The 35-year-old Miss Palmer, a 5-foot 1 dynamo, earned $76,374 in official money last year, a record for the LPGA. Her total earnings came to $94,805, as she finished in the top ten 17 times.

Her biggest paycheck, $32,000 and a new car, came in the last edition of the Dinah Shore event as she combined three rounds of 70 with a final-day 73 to finish five-under-par and top Kathy McMullen by a stroke.

Miss Palmer has yet to win in 1976 but has collected more than $9,000 in four tournaments.

Her best finish came in Florida in the Orange Blossom Classic in February, when she lost a sudden death playoff to JoAnne Carner.

Miss Palmer faces a field of 59 other top lady professionals in attempting to repeat her Winners Circle success of last year.

Kathy Whitworth, the LPGA's all-time money winning champion, Sandra Haynie, the most consistent golfer on the women's tour last season; Mrs. Carner; and Jane Blalock are expected to be among the front runners for the $32,000 first prize.

Two players considered outstanding contenders, Jocelyn Bourassa and Sandra Post, were forced to withdraw from the tournament.

Miss Bourassa, who is suffering from a combination of physical exhaustion and the after-effects of food poisoning, withdrew after completing the pro-am and Miss Post, suffering from flu, dropped out after three holes of the prelude.

Sports briefs

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — "This is just the beginning of a long, long fight," said Mike Marshall after a judge agreed to set a trial date on several allegations by the Los Angeles Dodgers' pitcher against Michigan State University.

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Ray Hotchkiss said Wednesday he would not act on several points until a trial on the merits of Marshall's complaints could be heard.

Hotchkiss did refuse to order Michigan State to change its new tighter rules on Marshall's use of intramural facilities to practice. Marshall failed to show the change was "arbitrary and capricious," Hotchkiss said.

The trial date will most likely be set months from now. Marshall said after the 2½ hour hearing that he's not sure if he'll stay in town or return to spring training in Florida.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Phoenix group is trying to get the Baltimore Colts to move to the Arizona city, officials of the National Football League team said Wednesday.

In a telephone intereview from his air conditioning firm office in Skokie, Ill., Robert Irsay, the Colts' owner, said Phoenix interests he would not identify "were in here and made an attractive offer."

General Manager Joe Thomas also said that overtures have been made by the Phoenix interests within the past month, but added that no official talks have taken place.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Tim Moore of Cincinnati captured the three-meter springboard championship and Cynthia McInvale of Dallas took the one-meter springboard in the opening events of the National AAU Indoor Diving Championships Wednesday night.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Jane Frederick of Goleta, Calif., broke her own American record in the women's pentathlon Wednesday by 56 points at the University of California-Santa Barbara campus.

Miss Frederick scored 4,732 points in winning four of the five events against an international field, but one that did not include the world record holder Burglinde Pollak of East Germany who has a best of 4,932.

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — The date of a nationally televised fight for the World Boxing Association lightweight championship has been switched from May 9 to May 23, promoter Lou Porreco announced Wednesday.

Roberto Duran will defend his crown against Lou Bazzaro of Erie in the match, which the CBS network will broadcast live from the Erie County Field House.

TORONTO (AP) — Dulcia, the Argentine-bred mare who won the $350,000 National Thoroughbred Championship last fall at Santa Anita, has been retired.

Owner Art Stollery of Toronto said Monday she will be sent to Spendthrift Farm in Lexington, Ky., where she is to be bred to Kennedy Road, a Queen's Plate winner who earned $481,000 for Stollery.

Stollery purchased Dulcia last March for about $150,000 and she earned $387,300 for him, including $240,000 in the big Santa Anita race. She also won the Vanity and Ramona Handicaps.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals will start the 1976 baseball season without Steve Busby, the ace of their pitching staff.

The Royals announced Wednesday they had placed the right-handed Busby on the 21-day disabled list. A spokesman said the Royals would try to have the disability made retroactive to March 25 so Busby could rejoin the team April 15 after missing only seven days of the season.

CARACAS, Venezuela — Second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania defeated Raz Reid 6-3, 7-6, 7-4 in first-round play of the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament.

MILWAUKEE — Dave Soutar rolled a 12-game total of 2,702 to take a 42-pin lead over Louie Moore in the $80,000 Pro Bowlers Association Tournament.

PROVO, Utah — Brigham Young University baseball coach Glen Tuckett was named athletic director to replace Stan Watts, who announced his retirement last week.

ARCADIA, Calif. — Gaelic Christian, $12, scored a 1½-length victory over El Portugues in Santa Anita's Baldwin Stakes.

ALBANY, Calif. — Prince Palmer, $8.80, took the Golden Gate feature by a head over El Potrero.

PAWTUCKET, R.I. — Disappointment, $10.20, won the Narragansett Park feature by 2½ lengths over Misty Hue.

NEW YORK — My Juliet, $3, scored a 1½-length victory over Let Me Linger in the Aqueduct feature.

Ben Crenshaw qualified for the expanded World Series of Golf to be held in Akron, Ohio, next September by winning the Bing Crosby pro-am and the Hawaiian Open this winter.

Broncs set for CCAA play

C-M tops UC Irvine

Claremont-Mudd won and Cal Poly lost in a pair of non-conference baseball games Wednesday afternoon.

The Stags beat visiting UC Irvine, 7-5, while the host Broncos were edged by Chapman College, 4-3.

C-M used a three-run sixth inning to get by the Anteaters. Going into the inning one run behind, 4-3, the Stags got singles from Jon Begerow, Jamie Opatrny, John Pignotti and Bob Turek, a walk to Al Golad and a sacrifice by Greg Thompson to produce the go-ahead runs.

Irvine's Scott Winters had hit a two-run homer in the top of the inning to give the visitors the 4-3 lead.

The Stags scored two runs in the fourth with some alert baserunning. Wynn Moore opened the inning with a single but was forced at second by Begerow, who went to third on Thompson's single. Thompson was caught in a rundown after a pickoff attempt, but Begerow broke for the plate, was caught in a rundown of his own and then scored, with Thompson advancing to third. Mark Stott singled home Thompson.

Thompson, Opatrny and Pignotti each collected two hits, with Pignotti getting two RBI.

Irvine's Steve Carpenter got two hits.

The Stags, 12-7, will visit Occidental Saturday for a doubleheader.

Poly's loss, dropping the Broncos record to 16-17-1, served as the squad's final warmup for CCAA play. The Pomonans will travel to Cal Poly San Luis Obispo for a single game Friday and a twinbill Saturday.

CPP's Coach John Scolinos will start Bruce McPherson (5-4), Mike Regus (5-3) and Gilbert Molina (2-2) in that order, while SLO will counter with Bruce Freeburg, Dave Pencille and Sam Solis, respectively. Molina, who absorbed the loss Wednesday, is the only southpaw in the group.

Chapman's Charlie Kretschmar, the ace of Cerritos College's JC state champion team last year, went the distance for the win. He faced just 12 Poly batters through the final four innings after the Broncs made the score 4-3 with two runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Singles by Monty Cloward and Dennis Sherow and a double by Alex Torres accounted for those runs. Sherow scored Poly's initial run in the first inning all the way from first base on a hit-and-run single by Clay Harris.

Chapman scored three times in the second on three hits and added an unearned run in the fourth.

The 34-year-old Painter also has coached at San Jose State (1971-72) and College of San Mateo (1973).

Painter played quarterback and defensive back at Rutgers University where, in 1961, he played on the school's first undefeated football team. He received his B.S. degree and also his master's degree in Education at Rutgers.

Claremont, Upland in top six

LOS ANGELES — Claremont High placed fifth and Upland sixth in the CIF 3-A swimming and diving finals Wednesday at East Los Angeles College.

The Wolfpack amassed 68 of the Highlanders' 58. San Marino overwhelmed the competition with 267 points, followed by El Dorado (109), La Canada (89) and Downey (88).

Claremont's Jim Moore was fifth in the 500-yard freestyle (4:47.76) and sixth in the 200 free (1:46.29). Claremont's 400 freestyle relay team of Moore, Mike Martin, Steve Smith and Craig Hildebrand placed second (3:18.12) to San Marino's record 3:12.65.

Upland's David Oakes was second in the 100 breaststroke in 1:00.96, a time which qualifies him for consideration as a High School All-America selection. The winner was San Marino's Ron Kehrman in a record 59.95.

Howard Hyde of Upland was third in the 100 backstroke in 55.52 while the Highlander 200 medley relay squad of Dallas Munroe, Hyde, Oakes and Doug DeYoung placed second in 1:41.66.

Montclair's Mike Harbottle was runnerup in the 50 freestyle in 21.64, a time which qualifies him for All-America consideration. Teammate Chuck Lovejoy was fourth in the diving competition with 301.85 points.

SAL entrants who placed in the consolation swims (seventh through 12th) were Claremont's Paul Beasom (ninth in the backstroke), Hildebrand (10th in the 100 free), Smith (11th in the 50 free) and the 200 medley relay team of Beasom, Marty Jackson, Hildebrand and John Oliver); Upland's Hyde (seventh in the 200 individual medley); Montclair's Harbottle (ninth in the 100 free) and Chino's Steve Moenicke (12th in the 200 freestyle).

Diamond Bar seeks title

The Division IV Diamond Bar Kickers of the Pacific Soccer League defeated the Orange Lions 5-0 last Saturday in the semifinals of the State Challenge Cup Competition.

Paul Caliguiri scored twice for the Kickers and Mike Brocki, Brian Mullan, and Brad Curtis each scored once. The Kickers mounted a total team effort and James Ratajczak was particularly outstanding on offense.

The Kickers will play the South Bay Gunners, another PSL team, at 10:15 a.m. on April 10 at Jackie Robinson Stadium in Los Angeles for the Southern California Championship. The winner of that match will advance to regional competition.

The Spittin' Image Claremont Kings cropped a 2-1 PSL Cup game to the South Bay Vikings in Division II action. Doug Jollymour scored the lone Kings' goal on a penalty shot. The Kings dominated play throughout the game but were unable to capitalize on numerous scoring opportunities.

SAL race even tighter

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Things have taken a strange turn in the already wacky San Antonio League baseball race.

Montclair southpaw Don Pierce, who had hurled his team to a 4-1 record and the SAL top spot, suffered an elbow injury in the Cavaliers' win over Chino on Tuesday and may be lost for the year.

In light of Pierce's injury, the already tight SAL standings figure to get even tighter in Friday's league action.

Montclair will be at Pomona to face the second-place Devils (3-2). Claremont, also 3-2, will host Damien (1-3-1). Upland, also 3-2, entertains Ganesha (1-4), while Garey (2-2)1) is at Chino (2-3). All those games start at 3:15 p.m.

Montclair coach Tom McFadden had indicated earlier this week that "it is a long drop from our number one pitcher, Pierce, to our number two." It appears as though McFadden and the rest of the league will find out how valid or invalid that statement is now that the Cav lefty is sidelined.

"I'll start Rich Labarge against Pomona on Friday, and see what happens," said the disheartened McFadden after the injury to Pierce on Tuesday.

Labarge is the team's regular centerfielder. He started a couple pre-league games earlier this year but was ineffective. The Cavs' number two hurler is Mike Kizziar.

Pomona will probably counter with Mike Keegan Friday. Its a big game for the Devils, who have dropped two straight SAL games in the last inning after a 3-0 league start.

Upland will try to stay in the thick of the race by hosting Ganesha, a club with a deceiving 1-4 league mark. The Giants surprised Claremont 1-0 Tuesday behind a strong pitching performance by Joe Jones. Joe Madrigal is expected to get the starting call on Friday against the Scots' Stan Smith or Eric Stentz.

Claremont also will try to avoid an upset at the hands of an improving Damien club. The Spartans battled Garey to a 6-6 tie on Tuesday, and know they need a win Friday to stay in the SAL race.

Sophomore Rich Bustos will start for Damien, while Claremont will counter with Leonard Peacock.

Garey and Chino, two more SAL entries trying to stay with the frontrunners, clash on Friday at the Cowboy diamond. Cregg Handy will probably get the starting assignment for the Vikings (2-2-1) vs. Joe Pickens for the Cowboys (2-3).

Neither the Vikings nor Cowboys have been able to put together back-to-back consistent efforts, so it figures to be a wild game when the two meet.

In contrast to the wide-open SAL war, the Hacienda League picture looks like Bonita High vs. the world.

The Bearcats have zipped off to a 6-0 start and figure to make that 7-0 Friday night under the lights at Sierra Vista. That night contest will start at 7 p.m. at the Baldwin Park school.

Shooting for his sixth straight win will be the Bearcats' senior right-hander Bill Bumstead. The Dons have to be a little down after being no-hit by San Dimas on Tuesday, a loss which dropped their Hacienda ledger to 2-4.

San Dimas has had a strange H.L. season. The Saints have receipted for two no-hitters, by Curt Burkhart and Dennis Wetzel, but stand even at 3-3 in league.

Wetzel will get the call Friday against winless Gladstone (0-6), and unless the Gladiators show more offensive spunk than they have to date another "no-no" by Wetzel is a distinct possibility.

Alta Loma held Gladstone to only one hit on Tuesday as the Braves are making their move in the Hacienda standings. They will try to up their 4-2 league mark Friday against a rugged opponent in Walnut, also 4-2, in what figures to be the feature Hacienda game of the day.

Steve Cuccia will pitch for A.L. and Bob Cordova will get the hill assignment for the Mustangs. That game will be played at 3:15 p.m. at the Braves' field.

The other H.L. tilt Friday has Ontario (2-4) at Royal Oak (3-3). A loss for either club would just about run their 1976 pennant hopes.

Chaffey will try to rebound from a shocking 12-3 loss to Eisenhower by traveling to San Gorgonio on Friday. That defeat on Tuesday to Ike dropped the Tigers' Citrus Belt League mark to 4-2 and knocked the locals out of first place.

John Mattke is the probable Chaffey starter in the 3:15 p.m. start at San Gorgonio Friday.

Baseball scoring clinic set Monday

Persons interested in learning how to keep score for baseball and softball are encouraged to attend a clinic on Monday at the Emerson Junior High Cafetorium. The session begins at 7:30 p.m.

The program is sponsored by the Pomona Park and Recreation Departments, Los Angeles County Department of Parks and Recreation and the Pomona Baseball Commission.

Basic fundamentals and responsibilities of a scorekeeper will be covered. The program is designed for those who will be in charge of statistics for Little League and softball teams this summer. Participants receive a scorekeepers manual.

Langley's column

come to Indiana or not," he said. "There are a couple of things he is going to have to do if he comes to Indiana and I want him to know about that when he is a senior in high school. There are a hell of a lot of kids who obviously want to be a part of a program where there is some direction involved. What we are talking about is the discipline and pride Anyway, what the hell is wrong with looking nice? I can see nothing wrong with that.

"I signed a boy the other day. He had long blond hair down to his shoulders. I said, 'Mike, one thing you're gonna have to do is get a haircut.' He said, 'Coach, if you want me to shave my head, I'll shave it.' I tell you, that so-and-so is gonna be a good player. I can tell he's coachable."

Defense is the key to Indiana's success. The Hoosiers take their opponents away from their game plan. For instance, UCLA just couldn't get the ball inside enough to Richard Washington and Marques Johnson.

And the UCLA guards couldn't hit from the outside in making only four of 24 shots.

"Indiana is the toughest defensive team in the country," Bartow said. "They kept us from getting the ball to Washington and Johnson and that was a big factor."

As usual, Knight was outspoken after the win over UCLA.

He told Bartow to tell David Greenwood that the first game counted also in referring to the remarks made by the Bruins' freshman center that the first encounter in St. Louis last November was only a practice game.

Asked why he said that, Knight answered, "I thought our win over UCLA had been belittled by the UCLA players and we didn't appreciate it. To us, both games counted."

Knight was also quite clear that he felt Big 10 foe Michigan, the opponent in the championship game, was the best team the Hoosiers had played in the title season.

When asked if he included UCLA, Knight quickly retorted, "I said Michigan is the best team we played."

Seventh perfect champs

The 1976 Hoosiers are only the seventh college team to enjoy a perfect season and Knight was delighted his team could compile a 32-0 record playing the likes of UCLA, Notre Dame, Kentucky and St. John's in the regular season followed by a rugged 18-game Big 10 schedule and the NCAA tournament featuring St. John's, Alabama, Marquette, UCLA and Michigan.

"I think I am just as tickled on how we won the title as I am about winning it," Knight said. "We played some damn good basketball teams this season."

Asked if he can have a dynasty similar to the one enjoyed by Wooden at UCLA, Knight answered, "No. We can't look at anything like that. I don't imagine we will ever see anything like that again. One great thing about Wooden is he never took anything for granted. He accepted a new challenge every year."

Knight faces a challenge next year with four starters graduating. However, big center Kent Benson returns plus some outstanding reserves.

The Hoosier coach didn't even return with his team to Bloomington. Instead, he stayed in the East to recruit.

"They pay me pretty well in Indiana and it isn't to relax," he said. "We have to build for next year."

In his 11 years of coaching, Knight has compiled a 226-69 record. However, his first six seasons were at West Point. He guided Army to the NIT four times at a place where there is no recruiting.

* * *

Playing in the NCAA finals is big money and it's bigger every year. UCLA's share this season is $140,000 and each of the Big 10 schools get $15,554 for having the honor of having two members among the final four. As part of the Big 10's share-the-wealth plan, Indiana and Michigan kept $77,777 apiece.

NBC will expand its TV coverage of the tournament next year planning first round doubleheaders on both the first Saturday and Sunday of the tournament. NBC will also telecast the regional semifinals in prime time on a Thursday night.

Kicking around

With Adrian Mercado and Willy Keo

NOT LONG AGO, while taping a radio soccer show, our new engineer, Chuck Sinclair, now with KFWB, asked for our script so that we could insert his cues. When told that we had no script he asked in disbelief, "You mean to say that you are going to do a whole show about soccer without running out of material?"

The truth of the matter is that unlike other major American sports, soccer is played year-round at some or every level of the game, at some or every country of the globe. This week for example, all levels of American soccer are active so we have a lot of kickin' around to share with you.

AYSO BEGINS ITS INTER-AREA PLAYOFFS this coming weekend with Claremont and Upland hosting the team championship playoffs on Saturday. At eleven the Division 6 boys, Claremont Jaws vs. Redondo Beach at Danbury Field, and at high noon the Division 4 boys, Upland Astros vs. Westchester at Pioneer Jr. High in Upland.

On Sunday, all All-Star playoff games will be played at the two adjacent fields at Pioneer Junior High in Upland. At 11 a.m., Division 3 boys, Claremont vs. Sierra Madre; 11:30 a.m., Division 6 boys, Claremont vs. Granada Hills; 12:30 p.m., Division 4 boys, Upland vs. Sierra Madre; 1 p.m., Division 5 boys, Diamond Bar vs. Granada Hills; 2 p.m., Division 2 girls, Claremont vs. Rolling Hills; 2:30 p.m. Division 4 girls, Upland vs. Manhattan Beach.

The Ontario Romans, local Area G team champs will fly to San Francisco to face the Portolla Valley eleven in a 1:00 p.m. kickoff at UC Berkeley.

CLAREMONT AYSO will hold a general meeting next Thursday at 8 p.m. at Condit School. Incidentally, Claremont AYSO has elected Herman Schoene as new Regional Commissioner after George Watanabe steps down at the end of this season. Kickin' Around congratulates Watanabe on a job well done during his two years in office. He always gave the welfare of the youth the highest priority and he shall be sorely missed.

CHAFFEY COLLEGE will get an opportunity to be numero uno when they go up against L.A. Pierce College Saturday at 11 a.m. in the morning. The Panthers defeated Santa Ana College last Saturday to remain one point behind Pierce. In that game Frank Garcia scored a "hat trick" by scoring twice in the opening half and booted in the winning goal in the second half. The Panthers played the last 55 minutes with only ten men on the field as a result of an ejected player. For those interested in traveling with the team, the bus will leave from Chaffey at 9 a.m.

THE SUPER TEN. That's the name of the new Pacific Soccer Conference. The Super Ten is made up of the top collegiate contenders in Division I schools within this geographic location and should add prestige to top college teams from the west coast. Its members include five members from Northern California, namely University of San Francisco, San Jose, Stanford, Cal Berkeley, and University of Santa Clara. The southern members are San Diego, Cal State Fullerton, USC, UC Santa Barbara, and UCLA.

Its executive officers are Fred Printle, President, coach of Stanford — Bob DeGrazia, Secretary-Treasurer, coach of U.C. Berkeley, and Steve Gay, Vice President, coach of UCLA.

The Super Ten conference should provide plenty of excitement and great soccer for many years to come.

THE L.A. AZTECS AND THE SEATTLE SOUNDERS moved into the Santa Ana Bowl last Friday and the visitors won their first exhibition game of the preseason slate 2-1; they had previously dropped four straight, two of them to the visiting Angelinos. On Sunday, both teams met, but this time in the Rose Bowl where the "Tangerines" blanked Seattle.

Both games lacked quality and both teams lacked cohesiveness a phenomenon not uncommon in pre-season games. The Aztecs' defensive line has good potential. Bernie Fagan is playing better than ever and is demonstrating good judgment in defensive maneuvers as well as offensive support; Jose Lopez is a hard worker but lacks basic skills; Ramon Moraldo is still the mainstay of the defense. He has outstanding heading ability and defensive skills and seems to be in great physical condition; Lee Atack is holding his own but seems to be pressing too hard often missing the open man.

The midfield line is shaping up but still has a ways to go. Fishaa is playing more aggressively and his passing has definitely improved, but he is having difficulty in maintaining a high calibre of play throughout the game; Luis Marotte as the midfield general is just that. Quiet, mild mannered, even-tempered, and diminutive in size, Marotte is a superb soccer player and sparkplug of the team. His perfect pass to Sergio Velasquez last Friday, which led to the second goal, was typical of his offensive support; John Mason is hustling but has to settle down a bit to become more productive; Sergio Velazquez is improving but is still a bit shy on the attack and is no threat with the head. He possesses good ball control and, with added determination for attacking, he should be a definite asset. Bob McAlinden, a new addition to the team, shows promise but seemed to be compelled to retain the ball a bit too long thus reducing drastically the forward momentum of the attack.

George Best so far has shown sporadic qualities of greatness but overall, his play is hampered by lack of coordination and cohesiveness with the rest of the forward line. With the arrival of Banhoffer, who is finishing his season in Holland, and the aggressiveness of McAlinden, some of the pressure will be off Best affording him the freedom which he needs to create havoc with the opponent's defense.

PELE AND BEST CAN BE SEEN ON T.V. this coming Sunday from Tempe, Ariz., when the Aztecs and New York Cosmos square off against each other in a preseason match. The game will be telecast both in English and Spanish starting at 4 p.m. on KMEX TV, Channel 34.

Other games to be televised are the Aztecs vs. New York game of April 11 (Coliseum) which will be televised on a "delay" basis on Wednesday April 14 at 6 p.m., the May 17 game against the Cosmos from New York, and possible others yet to be announced.

The 1976 NASL season is only 17 days away and again it looks like we will not run out of material.

MOVING ON TO THE INTERNATIONAL SCENE we find that Cruzeiro of Belo Horizonte, Brazil qualified for the semi-finals of the Liberators Cup of South America by defeating Internacional of Porto Alegre 2-0. ARGENTINA — Huracan scarcely beat San Telmo 1-0 to retain its four point lead over Independiente who also won by outscoring Racing 4-2. The military coup in Argentina is leading to greater speculation that the 1978 World Cup may have to be played in another country. Brazil has conveyed its desire to hold the event in its country should the need for an alternate location be needed. MADRID — Real Madrid increased its lead over Atletico de Madrid by 4 points by defeating Gijon 2-0 while the second place team tied 1-1 with Hercules. ROME — In the 23rd round of the Italian soccer championship, Torino beat Juventus by a 2-1 score thus reducing the latter's point lead to one only. PORTUGAL — Sporting nipped Benfica 1-0 in the fifth round of play. BELGRADE — Red Star took over the leadership of the Yugoslavian First Division by defeating Partizan 4-1 after the 22nd found. HOLLAND — PSV remained as the sole leader in Holland's First Division by beating Ajaz 3-1 in the 25th round of play. MEXICO — America, U. de Nuevo Leon, U. de Guadalajara, and Leon are the leaders of their respective group of Mexico's First Division.

Fitch is a good motivator

By The Associated Press

Coach Bill Fitch of Cleveland knows how to motivate his players.

"When I heard that Washington had lost, I told the players at halftime that we were up against a better team than Washington," Fitch said Wednesday after his Cavaliers defeated the New Orleans Jazz 110-101 and moved into first place in the National Basketball Association's Central Division, percentage points ahead of the Washington Capitals.

Cleveland has a 45-30 won-loss record for a .600 percentage. Washington, which dropped a 95-88 verdict to Golden State, is now 46-31 for .597.

In other NBA games Wednesday, Philadelphia edged Buffalo 107-103, Boston crushed Phoenix 122-102, Detroit stopped Chicago 102-96 and Seattle rolled over Los Angeles 120-109.

"The Jazz are quite a ball club and this Superdome is a tough place to play, as a lot of teams have found out lately," Fitch said. "Maravich (Jazz guard Pete) is amazing, and he makes it look so easy. (Henry) Bibby came in to replace Pete in the fourth period...and he just about killed us."

Jim Cleamons scored 18 points—12 in the final period— and Jim Chones and Austin Carr chipped in with 17 apiece to pace Cleveland. Maravich wound up with 21 points although sitting out the last 10 minutes of the game.

Bibby replaced Maravich and led a Jazz rally that cut Cleveland's 10-point lead to 95-92 with five minutes left before Cleamons scored six points to ice the Cavs' victory.

Warriors 95, Bullets 88

Phil Smith's 10-point splurge in the fourth quarter guided Golden State to its victory over Washington. Rick Barry paced the Warriors with 22 points while Charlie Johnson and Jamaal Wilkes added 18 each. Smith finished with 14 points, but his 12-footer in the final period broke a 79-79 tie and put the Warriors ahead to stay. High for Washington was Phil Chenier with 21.

76ers 107, Braves 103

Fourteen points by George McGinnis in the final 15 minutes carried Philadelphia over Buffalo and into second place in the NBA's Atlantic Division. McGinnis finished with 26 points.

Randy Smith and John Shumate paced Buffalowith 28 and 25 points, respectively.

Pistons 102, Bulls 96

John Mengelt's 23-point performance paced Detroit past Chicago as the Pistons posted their sixth straight victory. Tied 59-59 late in the third period, Detroit outscored the Bulls 16-6 to put the game away. Bob Wilson topped Chicago with 19 points.

Celtics 122, Suns 102

Boston snapped Phoenix' seven-game winning streak behind JoJo White's 22 points and Charlie Scott's 18. Nate Hawthorne led the Suns with 22 points, while Alvan Adams added 21 and Paul Westphal 18.

Dunk stuff returns to college basketball

By Associated Press

"The dunk is the most exciting play in college basketball," said Michigan's Johnny Orr, the sport's coach of the year, in acclaiming the restoration of the stuff shot.

The National Basketball Rules Committee, which governs all amateur basketball in the United States and Canada, voted Wednesday in Philadelphia to allow dunking during games of the 1976-77 season.

"If it wasn't good, the pros would have outlawed it and they haven't done that," added Orr, whose Wolverines lost 86-68 to Indiana in college basketball's national title game earlier this week.

It had been outlawed for a decade for the colleges, junior colleges, high schools and YMCA leagues.

The rulemakers also decided that henceforth two free throws, instead of one, will be awarded when a coach is assessed a technical foul for his conduct from the bench.

"You're talking about a five-point play," said Randy Albrecht, St. Louis University coach, adding that this change could be more significant than the return of the stuff shot.

The dunk was outlawed in part to keep the big men from dominating the game in the 1960s.

But Dr. Clifford Fagan, secretary of the 23-member rules committee which wound up its two-day annual meeting on Wednesday in Philadelphia, recalled that "the practice and use of dunking sometimes pulls down baskets, bends rims and damages backboards."

With that it mind, the new rules say the dunk will be legal only during games. A technical will be called on any player who makes a stuff during pregame warmups or intermissions.

"You can imagine what would happen if a game that's been scheduled for 8 o'clock for television has to be called off because somebody in a pregame warmup breaks the rim," said Fagan.

The vote for the dunk was large, but Fagan, from Elgin, Ill., didn't disclose how many of the 23 rules committee members favored it.

A sampling of reaction from college coaches around the country was nearly unanimous in hailing the resurrection of the dunk.

Even Adolph Rupp, the now retired Kentucky coach who once didn't like it—does now.

"I really think it should be a part of basketball," said Rupp. "I was violently opposed to it, but after thinking about it for two or three years, I think it has a spot in basketball."

Hocking tries to keep string

GARDENA — Former prep rodeo performer Rick Hocking of Fremont tries to keep the hottest string in the American Motorcycle Association alive Friday night as J. C. Agajanian stages the professional night half-mile opener at Ascot Park.

The 23-year-old native of Carson City, Nev., seeks his fourth big win in a row after winning the national TT at the Houston Astrodome, Agajanian's own nationally-televised 100-lap TT at Ascot, Mar. 21, and the Cal Rayborn Memorial half-mile at South Bay Park Speedway in Chula Vista last Sunday.

Among those trying to get to the line before him in an event that always pays the year's biggest purse aside from the AMA nationals are Gene Romero of San Luis Obispo, Mert Lawwill of San Francisco, and Steve Eklund of San Jose.

Romero, third behind Hocking and Eklund at Chula Vista and fourth in the 1976 Daytona road race, and Lawwill are both former AMA grand national champions. Eklund, a rookie, was Hocking's closest competitor in the 100-lap TT until he was penalized a lap for a rule infraction and was also impressive at Houston.

For the first time, Agajanian and the AMA are limiting the number of novices competing in an Ascot Friday-night half-mile event. To be eligible to compete, 40 riders must have survived qualifications Mar. 20 and tonight.

"The increasing numbers of motorcyclists entering professional racing has forced us to take this qualification step," Agajanian declared. "We have more than 100 novices trying to get to the main event, and it would force us to have fans to wait for the experts until too late in the evening. We think our new streamlined show will be especially appealing."

The new Thursday-night program will also include pro-am events in addition to novice qualifying.

'Pack wins

Claremont High's golf squad beat Damien, 194-217, Wednesday in a nine-hole San Antonio League match at Diamond Bar Country Club.

Low medalists Gary Cordry, John Mack and Bryan Bowles carded 38 each to lead the Wolfpack, now 6-1 on the season.

Still a few airline bargains, despite new rate increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price you pay to fly first class will increase between 4 per cent and 7.3 per cent on all domestic flights today, but travelers who have more time than money still can find some airline bargains.

In addition to the first class rate increases, coach class fares may rise by 3 per cent on some routes, mostly in the South and Midwest.

But airlines still are offering a variety of discounts that can cut anywhere from 20 per cent — for late night flights — to 30 and 35 per cent off the cost of a coach seat ticket. To qualify for larger discounts, passengers must abide by certain restrictions, such as making reservations 14 days in advance.

The increase in first class fares is the second of three hikes ordered by the Civil Aeronautics Board two years ago after it decided the fares were not high enough to cover the actual costs of providing service. The third increase will go into effect next year.

The coach fare increase on some routes is expected to occur as airlines that did not raise fares earlier this year seek to catch up with airlines that did.

Most airlines raised fares 1 per cent on Feb. 1 and 2 per cent on March 1. But some financially stronger lines, including National, Delta and Northwest, did not ask the board for those increases, saying they would seek instead to raise fares by 3 per cent on April 1.

Coach fare hikes planned by those airlines must be approved by the CAB before it can be implemented. But no CAB opposition is expected since the board said earlier this year the hikes were justified.

The increases may be a forerunner of others. Eastern, United and Trans World Airlines say they will ask for another 2 per cent hike in coach and first class fares effective May 1. Other airlines may follow.

The CAB-mandated fare hikes for first class travel are related to the distance flown and to the current coach fare with the largest increases coming on longer trips.

For example, the first class one-way fare from Washington, D.C., to Cleveland — a distance of 304 miles — will rise 4.8 per cent, from $59 to $62. Washington to Chicago one-way first class fares will rise from $91 to $97, or about 6 per cent, and Washington-Dallas one-way first class fares will rise from $147 to $158, or about 7 per cent.

First class fares across country on the Washington-San Francisco route will rise from $254 to $274, or about 7.3 per cent.

Most carriers expect the new hike to accelerate the recent decline in first class travel. But most say they doubt the first class increase will affect overall air travel, currently above projections because of discount fares and the generally improving economy.

Domestic airline traffic, measured in the number of total miles each passenger is flown, was about 12 per cent above last year's showing in January and 18 per cent higher in February than in February 1975, according to the Air Transport Association. This increase is welcome news for the airlines since the industry ended 1975 far in the red. The 10 trunk airlines and Pan American World Airways, which has only international routes, lost $104 million in 1975.

The upswing in air travel is attributed partly to the discount fares the airlines introduced in April 1975 in an effort to pull out of an economic tailspin. Those discounts can mean huge savings.

For example, the popular 30 per cent daylight excursion discount can cut $63 off the regular $210 cost of a round-trip coach flight from Washington to Dallas. Passengers willing to take a late night flight offered by many airlines can cut another 5 per cent off the price.

Airline advertising also has become more pointed in recent months.

TWA currently is running an advertising campaign naming competitors and uses CAB on-time figures in an effort to persuade customers TWA can get them to their destination on time more often than other carriers. Pan Am recently began advertising that stresses the fact that Pan Am is the only U.S. airline flying around the world.

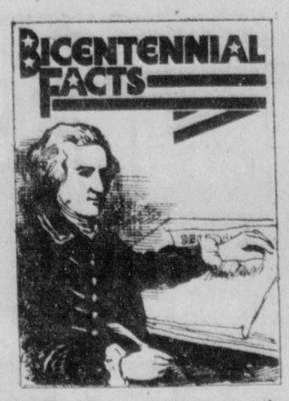

The increase in first class fares may result in a further decline in the number of first class air passengers. That decline began several years ago and the reasons vary from cost-cutting by companies whose executives once went first class to CAB rate-making standards.

For example, American Airlines says first class revenue was 18 per cent of its total income in 1970 but only 12 per cent in 1975.

Most carriers began remodeling more than a year ago to cut the number of first class seats and increase the number of coach seats on most planes. Most of that remodeling will be finished by midsummer.

Precise figures are not available on the extent of the remodeling, but TWA said its current program would remove 296 first class seats and add 748 coach seats. United Airlines gave no figure on how many first class seats were being removed but said it was adding 2,500 coach seats. American said it was adding 1,575 coach seats.

Several carriers indicated reasons for reducing first class seats were related directly to the decline in demand.

The first signature on the Declaration of Independence is that of a man from Massachusetts, John Hancock, who escaped capture by the British in the first battle of the war, at Lexington. He wrote his signature in such a way, he said, that "the King of England can read it without his glasses." This whimsical act alone made him immortal. An American handing out a contract for signature is apt to ask for "your John Hancock," The World Almanac notes.

Second drug conviction for Rettig

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP) — A Superior Court judge has sentenced former child actor Tommy Rettig for marijuana possession, Rettig's second drug-related conviction this year.

Rettig, 33, who starred in television's "Lassie" series, pleaded guilty last month to possessing three-quarters of a pound of marijuana.

Judge Richard Kirkpatrick sentenced him Wednesday to three years probation and six months in county jail. The judge suspended the sentence, providing Rettig serves a sentence handed down last month on a Los Angeles federal court conviction for smuggling a small quantity of cocaine from Peru in a liqueur bottle. That conviction is being appealed.

Rettig became famous during the 1950s as the master of the lovable, helpful collie that always came running when he called, "Lassie."

Charges against Rettig's 29-year-old wife, Darlene, were dropped earlier in the marijuana case.

Drinking, diving do mix

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Drinking and diving do mix — at least at depths greater than 500 feet.

That's what Dr. Peter Bennett, chairman of the Undersea Medical Society, told a divers' symposium here recently.

Bennett said a stiff drink can cut the effects of High Pressure Nervous Syndrome, the tremors and nausea which trouble divers working at great depths.

He said alcohol works well, wears off quickly and is readily accepted by divers.

ROCK AND ROLL — Cindy Michael takes it easy while Bill Brogie and Joisanne Kibler prepare to ride their bikes. They are members of the Overtones, singing group from the First Baptist Church, Pomona, which will stage a "Bike-a-Rock" (bicycle and rocking chair marathon) at Ganesha Park Saturday to raise funds for the group's tour of the Orient this summer.

Overtones plan bike-a-rock

The Overtones, a college-age singing group from Pomona's First Baptist Church, will stage a "Bike-a-Rock" (rocking chair and bicycle marathon) at Ganesha Park starting at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The program is being put on to raise funds for the chorus' tour of the Orient this summer. Each member must pay his own way, and proceeds from the Bike-a-Rock will be used to defray these expenses. Friends of the Overtones are invited to take part in the activities or to sponsor a participant.

At the conclusion of the Bike-a-Rock, the Overtones will give a free concert in the Ganesha Park bandshell at 3:30 p.m. The group will sing selections from its tour repertoire, including a Bicentennial group. The public is invited.

The Overtones is directed by E. Martene Craig, minister of music at the church.

The tour of the Orient is under the auspices of Youth for Christ.

Further information on the bike-a-rock can be obtained at the church, 629-5277.

Tryouts set for musical

The San Bernardino Civic Light Opera will hold auditions for "Man of La Mancha" at the San Bernardino Municipal Auditorium, Sixth and E streets, Saturday afternoon.

The award-winning musical hit will be presented May 7-15 at the California Theater of Performing Arts.

Singers and dancers interested in trying out are asked to call the SBCLO box office, 882-2545, for an audition appointment.

Tickets for the musical are now on sale at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce and at Mutual, Liberty and Wallichs agencies.

Claremont Playhouse

'Teahouse' will open

The Claremont Playhouse at 1333 N. Indian Hill Blvd. will open its first full season April 23 with a presentation of the award-winning "Teahouse of the August Moon."

The remainder of the season will be made up of "Kiss and Tell," the comedy, "Never Too Late," an as yet undesignated musical comedy, and "Blithe Spirit." Each production will be offered Tuesday through Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. for approximately six weeks.

Currently on the boards at the Playhouse is the family musical, "Butch and the Kid," a musical spoof of "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." Each performance is followed by a musical revue. The show is staged at 8:30 Wednesday through Saturday nights. Reservations can be made at 621-5005.

The Claremont Playhouse is the old Claremont High School, refurbished and air-conditioned.

NANCY SNYDER is winning critical applause for her portrayal of Joan of Arc in Jules Feiffer's fantasy-farce, "Knock Knock," on Broadway. At times she also assumes the role of Cinderella.

Europe's trains now in financial trouble

BONN, West Germany (AP) — State-run railways in Western Europe, which remained models of reliability and travel comfort while passenger service deteriorated in the United States, are now bogged down in deep financial woes.

Few of them had been profitable in recent years and they eliminated thousands of miles of road and cut down on their work force.

Even greater reductions in passenger service and personnel are being planned.

"It's one second to 12, not one minute before. When the clock strikes and nothing has been done to solve the railway's structural problems, it will be the death sentence for this enterprise," warned West German railroad President Wolfgang Vaerst.

Burdened by inflated work forces and debt-ridden passenger services on rural lines, European railways have managed to stave off bankruptcy only with the help of multibillion dollar government subsidies each year.

And now vast new investments are needed for 165 m.p.h. "supertrains" and other high speed equipment.

West Germany's railway, which has a staggering deficit of $10 billion, has proposed closing nearly half its 17,400 miles of track and eliminating 130,000 jobs over the next 10 years in an effort to concentrate passenger and freight services on profitable main lines.

However, actual closures will be considerably less — about 4,000 miles — because of regional political considerations and labor union opposition, German transport officials say.

Rail concentration and economizing measures in other Western Europe nations are meeting with varying degrees of success, a 10-nation Associated Press survey shows.

British Rail reduced its track network from 18,000 to 11,000 miles and slashed its payroll from 600,000 to 250,000 workers over the last 30 years without solving its massive financial problems.

The chairman, Sir Richard Marsh, announced last week he was quitting because of what he called government meddling with railroad hiring policies and criticism of his handling of the network, which lost $800 million in 1975. British Rail sources predict additional tracks and jobs will have to be eliminated.

Sweden's national railroad claimed a $25 million operating profit in 1975 after years of deficits, the payoff for eliminating 2,100 miles of unprofitable tracks since the early 1960s. Still, the railway says it needs a $200 million government grant this year to maintain passenger service on the 7,400-mile network, 63 per cent of which is rated unprofitable.

Belgium's railway, which lost $1.2 million in 1974, has cut some 280 miles of secondary tracks over the last decade and substituted economical commuter buses in these rural areas. The 2,400-mile network is now being bolstered by third or fourth lines on some heavily traveled sections to strengthen passenger and freight train capacity.

Automation has allowed Norway to reduce its railroad payroll from 28,000 to 18,000 in the last 20 years, and 1,000 more jobs will be trimmed in the next five years. Despite a $70 - million operating deficit in 1975, the railroad plans to build new lines which are considered less of a pollution hazard than superhighways.

The French railway, which lost $260 million last year, is in the process of closing down inefficient lines and opening new ones but it plans no major cuts in its 280,000-member work force.

This month, Paris officials approved plans for an $800 million high-speed line linking Paris and Lyon by 1981, providing competition for intercity jet airplane service. Environmentalists had delayed the project for three years by warning it would cause "irreparable damage" to the Burgundy countryside and prove as economically questionable as the controversial Concorde airliner.

Italy's 9,600-mile rail network is losing more than $3 million a day, yet track closures are rare and passenger fares remain the lowest in Western Europe to keep one million passengers riding daily. Many of the travelers have discounts, ranging from 25 to 70 per cent, and some 10,000 privileged persons, including politicians and war veterans, ride trains each day without paying any fare. Efforts are being made to cut these privileges and reduce the discounts, but the savings would hardly make a dent in the massive rail deficit.

Austria's railway is deeply in debt, and a hiring freeze has been imposed for 7,000 jobs of railway employes who retired in recent years, reducing the staff to 60,000. Because of political protests, the railway has been unable to cut services in low traffic border regions. Instead, it hopes to attract more business by updating equipment and services with $2.7 billion of investments over the next 10 years.

The Swiss railway, expecting a record deficit of $305 million this year, has slashed freight transit rates by 10 per cent to counter 12 to 20 per cent declines in foreign goods transiting the Alpine nation on rails.

Policemen in England are often called "bobbies." This honors Sir Robert (Bobbie) Peel, famous English statesman and founder of the London police force.

Many years ago, before there were any real policemen in England, the job of protecting life and property was often performed by ordinary citizens.

In 1829, Sir Robert organized the first modern force of uniformed policemen, trained to enforce the laws.

When the first English policeman appeared on the city's streets, they were dubbed "bobbies," after Sir Robert, and the name has stuck with them ever since.

The name "cop," a slang word for a policeman in the United States, may have come from the initial C.O.P. (meaning "constable on patrol"), that the early policeman or constable signed after his name.

Still another idea is that "cop" is a shortened form of "copper," referring to the copper badges and buttons that policemen once wore.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061

Cigarette Flavor Decoded.

Scientists isolate tobacco ingredients most essential to taste -'Enriched Flavor'™ packed into new low tar MERIT.

By "cracking" cigarette smoke down into separate ingredients, researchers at Philip Morris have discovered very special "key" flavor units that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.'

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' is MERIT. At 9 mg., one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet MERIT actually packs the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

Thousands of smokers were tested. The results were conclusive: Against five current leading low tar brands, 9 mg. MERIT was reported by a significant majority of smokers to deliver more taste.*

Repeat: deliver more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported MERIT MENTHOL delivered as much—or more—taste.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL.

Both packed with 'Enriched Flavor.'

Both lower in tar than 98% of all cigarettes sold today.

Both turning in extraordinary flavor performances against higher tar competition.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT.

What a Wonderful Way to LOSE FAT

The "MODEL-ETTS" way helps curb your appetite.

Helps You Lose That Extra Weight!
★ No calorie counting
★ No special diets
★ No excercises!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods. HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS.

These New York doctors discovered a food adjuvant called "MODEL-ETTS."

"Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

Before "Model-etts" was offered to you, it was tested clinically by the doctors on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found:

1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever.
2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight.

"Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvent—not a drug.

So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

You can get a trial size supply of "Model-etts" for $3.00 on money back guarantee. In clinical tests, "Model-etts" was 96% successful. "Model-etts" may not be 100% successful in all cases, but you take no risk in trying "Model-etts" on our Money Back Guarantee.

Come to any General Nutrition store to get "MODEL-ETTS." The sooner you start, the sooner you may have the loss of weight you yearn for.

Sounds too good to be true,
BUT IT IS TRUE!

HOW MODEL-ETTS CURBS YOUR APPETITE

In the opinion of the supervising physician, based on the average of weight losses in the clinical tests, his calculations showed that 1 Model-etts Wafer has the hunger-satisfying capacity of 1 pound boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.
